ONE STEP
Closer

Although the rigor of academic classes moved Erin Schafer One Step Closer to her college goal, a Halloween party prompts the senior to adopt the fun and mischievous antics of book character Pippi Longstocking. Ambitions and priorities differed with each of Madison Consolidated's 736 students, but everyday all inched One Step Closer in life.

Madison Consolidated High School

743 Clifty Drive
Madison, IN 47250

Enrollment - 736 (Grades 10-12)

ONE STEP
Closer

Most sped. Many sauntered along. And of course, a few stumbled. But regardless of pace, each day we all inched One Step Closer to ambitions, relationships, and adulthood. During our 185-day adventure together, teachers, news events, hot music, trendy fads, and friends influenced our direction. Some classes required a double shuffle, while others permitted a more comfortable jog. At times we resisted the pressure, but down deep all 736 of us knew such rigors would move us One Step Closer to something. Only we could determine our final destination.

Although we sometimes walked the path alone, it was seldom far. Whether we traveled in sync or slightly off to the side, we realized strength in camaraderie, and others' expertise. Each day teachers and administrators provided a productive travel course, plus charted a map for years to come.

Senior Emily Hoban works to meet a big deadline. Along with her academically hard schedule, she also took fun courses like band and journalism.

Hot weather doesn't dim drum major Brooke Robbins' enthusiasm for band. The Marching Cubs used The Lion King as the basis for its half-time show.

Medical technology students April Wilson and Debbie Miller maintain food records as part of their Med-Tech class. Under the supervision of Mr. Jerry Ison, the class visited King's Daughters' Hospital twice a week to observe medical procedures.

Jessica Settlemyre, Brandi Dryden, Lynzy Armstrong and Jennifer Watson investigate a scientific concept in physics class. Mr. Virgil Imel taught all the physics classes.

Building trades students work on the construction of their new house off Cragmont Street. Under the direction of Mr. David Bear, this marked the third year for the class to build a new home.

ONE STEP
Closer

Journalism and yearbook students take a break from school to enjoy the Broadway musical Miss Saigon. The students also attended two other musical productions, Christmas Carol and Cats.

Students came One Step Closer to meeting the demands of the 21st Century when the doors of the $3.5 million technology wing opened in February. The two-story facility, which featured 16 new classrooms, became home to all business and vocational programs, plus returned the agriculture department to the main campus. Classes found themselves quadrupling in space, such as the home economics area which contains a kitchen, two classrooms, textiles lab, and a child development area. Principal Roger Gallatin stated, "The wing is a great asset to our school. The new addition will offer a wide variety of services that are found in the real world, enabling students to go into society more prepared."

Social studies teacher John Ehlers spreads a little Christmas cheer as he parades around as Jolly St. Nick. Mr. Ehlers won the convocation honor as a result of a fundraiser headed by the Senior Advisory Board.

National Honor Society members wrap presents for their Toys-for-Tots campaign. The program, now in its fourth year, sported its best drive ever with over $2,000 in toys and donations benefiting underprivileged children.

Senior Amy Manaugh finds ample time to play pool as a result of January's uncooperative weather. A 12-inch snowfall prompted officials to cancel school nine days, resulting in an extended school year and a delay in graduation.

For residents of Clifty Convalescent Center, senior Sarah Adams extends the true meaning of Christmas. In their quest to strengthen school and community relations, Student Council members adopted five grandparents for the holidays.

ONE STEP

On the opening day of school Aug. 23, air conditioning greeted students for the first time ever. Sounds of hammers and scattered sawdust didn't tarnish the students' illusion of what the $10 million renovation would bring. A new $3 million cafeteria, with a dome atrium, opened its doors in October. In late February, we moved One Step Closer to meeting the demands of the 21st Century with the addition of the $3.5 million technology wing and an overhauled auditorium. And before the school year ended in June, hookup with the Internet made files and miles only minutes away. But after the 3:20 p.m. tone, family, friends, and trends too made a significant difference in the number and kind of steps we chose.

Whether we donned Nikes, Bass or Tony casuals, L1 a m a boots, we all moved One Step Closer. Without question, Madison Consolidated High School charted a good path. We just walked it differently.

Swedish exchange student Erik Akesson checks his graphic design for the yearbook template. Akesson also participated on the tennis and swim teams.

Building trades student Joshua Taylor helps erect a scaffold. Lots of snowy days and bitter weather in January forced the class to stay inside and study construction techniques.

Laura Green, Candice Potts, Darci Crum and Mandi Humphrey enjoy watching Craig Cammack open his birthday presents. Friends used a sad call to trick Cammack to the surprise party, hosted by Katie Wildman.

Homecoming queen Kristen McClelland hugs co-captains Chad Cole, Bill Wilcox, Trey Pender and Mark Pietrykowski. McClelland also won Miss Jefferson County honors in July.

Brisk winter weather fails to dampen junior Mark Nethery's Christmas spirit as he rings bells for the Salvation Army. Peer counselors supported the drive as part of their community service efforts.

ONE STEP Closer

Chemistry II students reveal their holiday spirit by surprising teacher Robert Kuppler with a "Chemis-Tree." Most classrooms sported some type of Christmas cheer, many with a subject theme.

The music and drama programs edged One Step Closer to Broadway with the Opal E. Sherman Auditorium receiving an extensive facelift and makeover. Improvements such as a new box office and restrooms highlighted the front entrance, while the interior sported new cushion seats, lighting, stage floor, curtains, carpet, sound system and catwalk. In October, the renovation forced the all school play, The Miser, to be moved to the junior high cafeteria. But by April, theatre returned to the auditorium with the production of the all school musical Once On This Island. Both music and drama students were proud to call the renovation, earmarked by its classy Greek revival window, home.

Band member Ray Tice strikes up the beat for the Christmas convocation. The band played a medley of holiday songs, while teachers sang their rendition of The Twelve Days of Christmas.

Spanish students Beth Fisher, Erica Dunagan, James Adams and Krista Gourley ready their crafts for the pinata sale, held Chautauqua weekend. The profits benefited the Spanish Club.

Seniors Craig Cammack and David Gabbard get into the Halloween spirit as they web up for their spook fest. Senior classmates doubled as all types of characters, ranging from Pippi Longstocking to ghouls and goblins.

Senior Student Council members Katie Wildman, Kristen McClelland and Addie Thorpe decorate for the coronation of Mr. and Miss Cub. This marked the first year for the crownings to be held on the same night.

In August, Rocio Sandoval came from Monterrey Nuevo Leon, Mexico to spend 10 months in our historic town. The foreign exchange student reflected that she particularly enjoyed the opportunity to observe American lifestyle firsthand, meet new people and live in a small community. Midwest weather also provided Sandoval another first, sub-zero temperatures, piles of powdery snow and hazardous driving conditions. "I'll never forget the first snowfall," she recalled, adding that the cold weather made her "shiver." The seniorita attended most of Madison's sporting events, plus served as team manager for the Lady Cubs basketball team. Unlike most exchange students, Sandoval had a lot of help from home about her American stay in Madison, IN. Her sister lived here five years ago as an exchange student.

As seniors took One Step Closer to ending their high school era, fashions and fads rapidly changed. Gals sported shag hair-cuts, while the opposite gender favored the longer, shaggy look. When Ole Man Winter pushed temperatures to the frigid range, flannels, corduroys, angora sweaters and thick soled boots kept the Class of '96 both warm and stylish. Last year's rugby shirts, leather bombers and body suits got shoved to the back of the closet or to neighborhood yard sales. But every teenager's old faithful friend, blue jeans, never lost their appeal. Whether they be Calvin Klein, Levi or Wrangler, denim fashionably blended in.

Senior Ryan Risk took his four years of Spanish One Step Closer to reality last summer. Risk traveled to Lima, Peru on an exchange program sponsored by the Lions Club. During his six-week stay, the foreign language student gained a better understanding of the native language and South American lifestyles. The senior cited the impressive architecture and his host family as the best parts of the adventure. The family - consisting of the parents, one grandmother and three sons - accepted the American teen as their fourth son. Enroute to his destination, Risk also encountered the rough side of life. He spent two nights in a hotel with no electricity or running water. The young American ambassador called the whole venture a "wonderful experience."

While most students last summer flipped hamburgers, stocked shelves or taught swimming lessons to earn money for college, senior Karen Roark worked and studied in her chosen career of journalism. She earned a mini-internship with the Louisville Courier Journal in August. The Society of Professional Journalists only tapped five students from Louisville Metro/Southern Indiana for this distinction. Besides the internship, the media enthusiast also attended the Indiana University Journalism Institute for the second consecutive year, again capturing an excellent evaluation. In between these stints, Roark also worked for the Madison Courier and WORX Radio where she designed ads and reported on local government meetings. In October, a Madison Courier advertising venture resulted in a third place citation from the Hoosier Press Association. Later she also won writing honors in the Greater Louisville High School Press competition.

SAT tests, scholarship forms and college applications brought seniors One Step Closer to post-graduation.

Home state favorites such as Purdue, Indiana University, Ball State and IVY Tech ranked No. 1 with most college-bound students, but several opted for neighboring schools such as University of Kentucky, University of Louisville or Sullivan Business College. By January, bank accounts began to drop due to application fees, entrance costs and room deposits. But in May students found relief when local industries, businesses and organizations donated thousands of dollars in scholarships and grants.

The efforts of eight rollerblading enthusiasts resulted in the formation of the Madison Hockey League (MHL). In October, the group asked Madison City Council for support in securing a playing area. After examining several properties, MHL received permission to use an abandoned lot on Vaughn Drive and Jefferson Street in exchange for free labor during Madison Regatta Week. Student coordinator Matt Mitchell informed city leaders that a rollerblade facility would offer a place for teens to go and do something constructive with their free time. By mid-winter, membership rose to 25, with 75 general participants.

Missing nine days of school because of snow disappointed seniors as they looked forward to graduation. In early January, Mother Nature dumped 12 inches of snow to create three foot drifts and make Jefferson County roads impassable. The Blizzard of '96 marked the second big snow of the decade, with the last one occurring in 1994. Most students spent the days sledding at Hardy Lake Dam, traveling to Paoli Peaks to ski, catching up on sleep, and shopping in Clarksville and Louisville. Highway crews cleared the main arteries within a couple of days, but the county roads demanded a lot more than salt and cinders. The Indiana Department of Education waived three of the make-up days because of the weather impact statewide. School officials pushed graduation back from June 2 to June 9. Graduation, however, returned to the Salm Gym after renovation forced it to Hanover College last year.

ALL SCHOOL PLAY

Plot

The Miser, written by Moliere, centers around the miserly Harpagon and his children. He plans to marry his daughter to a rich old man but she manages to bring her beau into their household disguised as a servant. Harpagon, himself, wants to marry the beautiful Mariane who is in love with his son. So the two children decide to steal their father's money in hopes of bringing him to his senses.

Minor Dilemmas

This marked the first time in 35 years for the all-school play to be held outside of the Opal E. Sherman Auditorium. The renovation prompted the cast to use the Junior High cafeteria stage. Even with all the adjustments, everything went smoothly until 60 minutes before curtain time. A school-wide electrical failure forced the cast and crew to abandon their Saturday night production and reschedule The Miser for the next evening.

Lead Role

Ben Rogers (Harpagon)

Supporting Cast

Annette Crooks, Mistress Claude. Annee Frazer, Frosine. Carrie Hertz, Mistress Jacquelyn. Annie Hoffman, La Fleche. Elana Jack, Elise. Kerri Kohane, La Merluiche. Wendy Long, Mademoiselle Simone. Cassie Miller, Magistrate. Becky Phillips, Brindoroine. Sarah Phillips, Mariane. Frank Sabelhaus, Valere. Ray Tice, Cleant. Billy Underwood, Monsieur Anselme.

Stage Crew

Directors

This marked Mr. Bill Lindquist's 12th year to direct the all-school play. Senior Katie Wildman served as student director.

Sophomore Cassie Miller records the complaints of the people. An electrical failure caused the play to be postponed until Sunday evening.

Juniors Ray Tice and Sarah Phillips engage in a momentary kiss. The cast featured 14 members.

Servant Annie Hoffman takes a break as her master Ben Rogers scolds her. Rogers' character, Harpagon, assumed the leading role.

After receiving a severe beating from her master, Carrie Hertz struggles to get back on her feet. This marked Hertz's second year to participate in MCHS theater.

Frank Sabelhaus professes his love to Elana Jack. Due to the renovation here at the high school, The Miser had to move its production site to the Junior High.

Wendy Long and Ben Rogers embark in a brief discussion.

CUB QUOTES

What was your favorite scene from The Miser?

When Ben Rogers beat up Carrie Hertz.

- Kami Holt

I thought it was romantic when they were proposing.

- Mark True

I enjoyed every part of the play.

- Heidi Morris

ACADEMIC COMPETITION

Academic Decathlon

The Decathlon team sported a very successful year. In January the squad captured Overall Champion honors in the small school division in the Area Academic Decathlon competition at Southport High School. Team members earned 38 medals in nine areas, plus a third place rating in the Super Quiz. In state competition, Madison placed eighth. Members brought home seven medals - Honors Division Winners Kellie Park, second in interview, and Nicholas Buchanan, third in mathematics; Scholastic Division Winners Julie Demaree, first in speech, and Gayle Putrich, first in science and third in language/literature; Varsity Division Winners Angel Gardner, first in language/literature and second in interview. The Decathlon topic focused on Competition and Cooperation.

Spell Bowl

At the 10th Annual Hoosiers Spell Bowl, held at Switzerland County High School, Madison tied for first in the Class II category. The spellers correctly accumulated 75 out of 90 correct words, resulting in a tie with South Dearborn and Austin high schools. In the tie breaker competition, Madison outspelled South Dearborn but deadlocked with Austin. As a result, both schools shared the honor of regional champions. Perfect spellers for Madison included Annie Hoffman and Jayme Hart. Madison went on to compete at state, where the team received a fourth place overall in the Class II category.

Super Bowl

This year also marked the 10th Annual Hoosier Academic Super Bowl competition. The contest took place at Austin High School with Madison compiling an overall total of 110 points to win first in Class II division. Teams placing first for Madison included mathematics, English, science, fine arts and interdisciplinary. The science and interdisciplinary teams scored high enough to qualify for state competition. At state, the science team placed third with the interdisciplinary squad capturing fifth out of eight schools.

Coaches

Mrs. Lorna Naylor, Academic Coordinator. Mr. Jerry Dougan, Mrs. LaVonne Zimmerman, Mrs. Julie Sparks, Mrs. Carol Martin, Mr. Kevin Yancey and Mrs. Susan Robinson.

Junior Kellie Park concentrates on her study material. Park, who participated on the Honors team, placed second in state interview competition.

CUB QUOTES

What did you consider the most beneficial team?

The math team, because I could apply what I learned to my schoolwork.

- Justin Geisler

Decathlon, because I learned calculus, environmental science and how not to act in an interview.

-Annie Hoffman

Decathlon, because I learned to work hard in many different areas.

-Nick Buchanan

BAND / CHOIR

Band

Marching to the beat of The Lion King soundtrack, this year's band accomplished the hardest drill ever. With drum majors Brooke Robbins and Mark Nethery leading the way, the group received second place at Jeffersonville and third at Columbus. The ensemble also captured a Division I rating at district competition and went on to receive a Division II rating at regional. This marked the third consecutive year for the Marching Band to merit a Division I rating at district. Madison also hosted a Marching Band Showcase which featured performances from Trimble County and Southwestern, as well as Madison. The Madison unit also captured numerous Division I and II awards at the state Solo and Ensemble contest in February.

Choir

This year's choir participated in numerous activities. Due to the renovation of the auditorium, all concerts and recitals performed first semester were held at St. Michael's Church. The choir executed both fall and winter recitals at the church. In March, the ensemble hosted the Butler University Choral for workshops and a concert. The German Youth Choir exchanged concerts with the MCHS Show Choir in April. In May, the Show Choir participated in a joint venture that involved the choirs from Southwestern, South Dearborn and Jennings County. The groups tallied up many awards and achievements at the ISSMA State Contest. Twelve soloists and four ensembles were selected to compete. Seniors Katie Wildman and Jessica Settlemyre, along with junior Eli Center, qualified for All State Choir honors. This marked Wildman's third year and Center's first. Settlemyre served as an alternate.

Senior Honor Day Awards

Katie Wildman, Choir. Ketia Collier, Senior Instrumentalist, Co-John Phillips Sousa. Corey Ellegood, Co-John Phillips Sousa. Laura Green, Co-Director's Award. Brandy Hall, Co-Director's Award.

Drum major Brooke Robbins directs the Marching Cubs. The band received new uniforms for this year's marching and concert seasons.

Ryan Risk, singing You Make Me So Very Happy, performs with the Madrigal Show Choir. The group presented several concerts for the school, Lions Club and Kings Island.

CUB QUOTES

What is your most embarrassing band/choir moment?

When I had to sing a solo in choir class and I messed up really bad.

- Shannon Murray

I forgot to bring my instrument to a contest and had to borrow one from a rival band.

- Ben Rogers

I walked into the girls dressing room by mistake at a concert.

- Eli Center

Band members Amanda Couch and Missy Callis practice their flute ensembles. The band captured numerous Division II awards at the state Solo and Ensemble Contest.

Jessica Settemire arranges her music for choir rehearsal. In March, the choir participated in the Ohio Valley Choral Festival.

JOURNALISM / MEDIA

Journalism I, II

Before the school year ended in June, 30 J-I and J-II students produced 18 editions of Time Out News and four issues of The Madisonian. The last newspaper featured 44 pages, with a picture and brief biography of each senior. The 20-minute weekly video newscast also aired on local cable, as well as throughout the school each Friday morning. Numerous staffers attended conferences - from Bellarmine, IU Southeast to Ball State - to broaden their knowledge of media, technology, operations and issues. At the SISF conference in November, The Madisonian received nine major awards. Over the summer, senior Karen Roark captured honors for her division at the Indiana University Journalism Institute. Later the National Newspaper Association named Roark one of seven national winners for her advertising work for Mike's Grill. Katie Wildman and Gayle Putrich also merited regional recognition, winning mini-internships in public relations and newspaper. One of five tapped from the Louisville Metro area, Putrich won a one-week job-shadowing opportunity with The (Louisville) Courier-Journal.

Yearbook

Through the hard work of 15 staffers, One Step Closer evolved. The 136-page book featured 32 pages of process-color, which included the opening and senior sections. To accommodate the newspaper, video newscast and yearbook load, the journalism area acquired four new Power Mac computers, a scanner and a 600 DPI laser printer. In April, Erin Chapman, Kendra Gordon and Kara Dryden attended Ball State J-Day to learn new ideas for the 1997 edition.

Social Outings

Keeping with tradition, J-students participated in several cultural and entertainment outings. Numerous staffers ventured to the Kentucky Center for the Arts to view Miss Saigon and Cats, plus enjoyed Christmas Carol at Actors Theater in December. While attending the production of Miss Saigon, a Courier-Journal photographer took pictures of the Madison delegation. Later that week, the Louisville paper featured a story on the theatre goers and a short interview with adviser Rosalind Harrell. In late May, Mrs. Harrell and co-yearbook adviser Lorna Naylor sponsored an appreciation breakfast for staffers at The Steer Restaurant. Then on June 5, Mrs. Harrell, Mrs. Naylor and 19 staffers forgot about sleep to enjoy an "23-hour whirlwind" trip to the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame Museum in Cleveland, OH. The music enthusiasts commenced their travels at midnight.

Craig Cammack gives fellow J-II student Katie Wildman input on the staff editorial saluting recycling efforts. Recipients of the Two-year Journalism Award on Senior Honor Day, both seniors contributed to The Madisonian and served as lead anchors for Time Out News.

Ryan Risk shares his opinion with other members of the yearbook opening/closing team. On Senior Honor Day, Risk secured the First Year Yearbook Citation, with Kristen Gaffney, Emily Hoban and Jennie Risk meriting the accolade for second-year staffers.

Ray Tice puts the finishing touches on his ad design for People's Trust. The junior won the honor of handling Pgs. 1-2 for the last newspaper. His stories focused on school renovation, Student Council elections and a locally produced movie.

CUB QUOTES

What do you enjoy most about participating in journalism?

It gives me a chance to use what I've learned in the paper and on Time Out News. - Gayle Patrich

In yearbook I learned what it takes to put a quality book together.

- Emily Hoban

I enjoy all the great field trips and being on Time Out News.

- Starr Madrill

Camerman David Tatera videotapes a shooting of Time Out News. This marked the third year for the weekly, 20 minute newscast.

Members of the senior section, yearbook staffers Jennie Risk, Addie Thorpe and Julie Petscher collaborate on their computer design.

Plot

Once On This Island tells the tale of a love struggle between a young peasant girl and a rich land owner. The rich man faces the dilemma of marrying a woman of higher class just to go along with the native tradition of pre-arranged marriages or to follow his heart and select the woman he truly loves. But the gods interfere with the love affair and place a bet to see if love can withstand death.

Renovation

Once On This Island became the first theatrical performance to experience the auditorium's new $500,000 facelift. The amenities included cushioned seats, new stage curtains, a wooden floor, a computerized light board and a 16-channel sound system with 58 acoustic panels.

Main Cast

Elana Jack, Timoune; Anne Maas, Little Timoune; Katie Wildman, Andrea Devereaux; Carrie Hertz, Asaka, Mother of The Earth; Jessica Settlemyre, Erzulie, Goddess of Love; Barbie Ritchie, Mama Euralie; Tanner Owings, Agwe, God of Water; Frank Sabelhaus, Daniel Beauchomme; James Thur, Papa Ge, Demon of Death; Craig Cammack, Armand Beauchomme; Eli Center, Tonton Julian; Ray Tice, Gatekeeper.

Storytellers

Chorus

Crew

Directors

Mrs. Lynn Maricle, Director. Mr. Bill McKinley, Technical Consultant. Gayle Putrich, Student Stage Manager. Elizabeth Auxier, Assistant Student Stage Manager.

The four gods discuss the fate of Timoune. The gods interfered with her life in order to bring her happiness.

The whole cast comes together to portray a tree in one of the final scenes. The total cast included 40 members.

Ryan Risk mesmerizes his prey, played by Kristen McClelland, as he performs the native tribal dance. Both seniors participated in theater throughout their school career.

Name your favorite character in the musical?

Ryan Risk and Kristen McClelland doing the funky chicken dance.

- Chris Stucker

Ray Tice, because he's an awesome actor.

- Clint Kernen

Frank Sabelhaus, because he cracked me up.

- Amy Hoffman

Prosperous Frank Sabelhaus sings a lullaby to his peasant love Elana Jack. Due to their lifestyle differences, these two could not marry and live happily ever after.

Displaying his fortune, Craig Cammack lifts his hands in honor of his royal majesty. Once on This Island marked the senior's debut in high school theatrics.

STUDENT EVENTS

PROM

Theme

Shimmering colors of wine, black and silver enhanced the banquet room of the J. Graham Brown Campus Center at Hanover College April 20, with over 450 students and outside guests attending the Junior-Senior Prom. Angel Eyes by Jeff Heely Band posed as the song for the theme, It's Just A Dream. The elegant room contained decorative balloons, streamers and candles to light up the night.

Prom Courts

Princess candidates included Megan Bullington, Heather Eicher, Kami Holt, Erin Klopp, Amber Oliver and Tasha Wells, with the prince candidates being Ben Canida, Gabe Hearne, James Jester, Donnie Koontz, Peter Schuring and Ian Smith. Holt and Jester walked away with the titles. Queen candidates consisted of Kristen Gaffney, Jessie Jones, Amy Manaugh, Stevanie Mitchell, Jill Pyles and Addie Thorpe with the king candidate honors going to Chad Cole, Ryan Gorbett, Michael Humphreys, Casey Perkins, Mart Perry and Justin Williams. Manaugh and Perkins captured the crowns.

Attire

Formal gowns ranged in a variety of rainbow colors, but black proved to be the most popular. Girls purchased their dresses, both long and short, at popular Louisville-based stores such as Bacon's, Dillard's and Lazarus. Most tuxedos sported the traditional black with a few exceptions of white, purple and teal. Vests, along with cummerbunds, generally coincided with their date's dress color.

Other Activities

Before prom most couples, either individually or in groups, dined together. Whether at a fancy restaurant or a candlelight dinner at home, this served as a popular before prom activity. The Upper Crust, Ogle Haus and Cinnamon Tea Room reigned as favorite local eateries. After prom, most couples attended private parties.

Enjoying the fast-beat, seniors bust a move on the dance floor. This year's DJ came from Triangle Talent Company of Louisville and provided a variety of rap, country, rock, and R & B music.

Seniors Darcie Crum and Brian Schafer enjoy one last dance to end a perfect evening. Many couples made the night memorable by dining at local or out of town restaurants.

Brooke Moyer gets down to the music while Casey Sullivan begins to join in. Over 450 students and outside guests attended.

Moved by the beat, Julie Demaree and Erik Akesson hit the dance floor. The school initially planned to host the prom in the new school cafeteria, but juniors and seniors alike favored the return to Hanover College.

CUB QUOTES

Did prom meet your expectations?

Yes, It was a lot better than last year's.

-Amy Kring

Prom was great! I'm glad my date and I could share such a special night together.

-Christie Holler

Prom was more fun than I envisioned. The dinner before was great and the whole night very exciting.

-Craig Cammack

Despite all the formality of prom night, couples Katie Wildman, David Gabbard, Laura Green and Craig Cammack add a touch of laughter to the special night.

Seniors Casey Perkins and Amy Manaugh capture the titles of King and Queen. Seniors nominated the candidates, with the student body selecting the winners.

SENIOR HONOR DAY

Honors Day

Principal Roger Gallatin and class sponsors Betty Sebree and Kim Deffenbaugh divided Senior Honor Day this year into two separate ceremonies instead of the traditional one. With both being held in the Connor K. Salm Gymnasium, the first Honor Day focused on scholastic, athletic and club awards while the second featured superlatives, scholarships and extracurricular honors. The second ceremony also witnessed the passing of the Student Council gavel and the school key from this year's seniors to the Class of 1997. Altogether, the seniors merited approximately $1 million in grants and scholarships, calculated over a four-year period.

Superlatives

Chad Cole and Amy Manaugh, Best Dressed. Ryan Gorbett and Kristen McClelland, Friendliest. Matt Mitchell and Laura Green, Most Likely to Succeed. Aaron Peelman and Addie Thorpe, Cutest. Byron Jackson and Marci Eicher, Dizziest. Casey Perkins and Jill Pyles, Best Build and Figure. Jason Gourley and Kristen Wehner, Cutest Senior Couple. James Adams and Carrie Hopwood, Most Appealing Smile. Russell Benkert and Erin Schafer, Class Clowns. Bill Wilcox and Jane Haggerty, Most Athletic. Ryan Risk and Katie Wildman, Most Involved in School Activities. Ira Whitacre and Elana Jack, Most Overall Talent. Michael Humphreys and Stevanie Mitchell, Most Class Spirit. Jason Gourley and Julie Elston, Most Wit and Humor. Brad McAlister and Kori Heath, Most Unpredictable. Trae White and Summer Gammons, Class Flirts. Steven Schmidt, Michael Wise and Nissa Royalty, Prettiest Eyes. Erik Akesson, Mercedes Frezia, Paula Lopes, and Rocio Sandoval, Mayor's Honorary Citizens.

Craig Cammack exchanges an emotional hug after receiving a $300 band scholarship from the Lelia Johnson family. The scholarship ceremony attracted a large turnout of family members and friends, filling both sides of the gym bleachers downstairs.

Tonya Moore accepts the Agriculture Science/Business Award from Program Leader Jill Deputy. Moore shared the honor with Julie Elston, Summer Gammons and Jessie Jones.

Participants in the 85th Annual Custer Contest include Robin Lockridge, Laura Green, Julie Petscher, Jessie Jones and Matt Mitchell. Mitchell placed first with his dramatic performance of Edgar Allen Poe's Tell-Tale Heart.

Senior Kathy Minor merits a certificate of achievement. Altogether, the Class of 1996 earned over $1 million in scholarships over a four-year period.

Classmates congratulate fellow seniors on their achievements.

CUB QUOTES

Which teacher has influenced you most?

Mr. Don Lostutter because he steered me in the right direction.

- Stevanie Mitchell

GRADUATION

The Big Day

June 9, 4 p.m. in Connor K. Salm Gymnasium. One-week delay due to nine snow days in December and January. 208 graduates, including four exchange students. 59 Academic Honor Diplomas.

Valedictorian/ Salutatorian

Laura Green, valedictorian. Robin Lockridge, salutatorian.

The Ceremony

Jill Pyles began the 90-minute celebration by leading the Pledge of Allegiance, while Craig Cammack followed with the invocation. Student Council President Kristen Gaffney welcomed family members, faculty and friends. In presenting the class history, David Gabbard, Amy Manaugh and Addie Thorpe recalled fun times as well as individual and group accomplishments. 1988 graduate Heather Buchanan-Babb served as keynote speaker. As the public relations director of a Pennsylvania hospital, Buchanan-Babb advised graduates to welcome new opportunities and never shut doors. Other presenters, in addition to the valedictorian and salutatorian, included Acting Superintendent Dr. Richard E. Althoff and Principal Roger Gallatin. Matt Mitchell delivered the farewell and Stevanie Mitchell ended the ceremony with the benediction.

(Farright) Graduation prompts both sadness and happiness for Addie Thorpe. Certain memories invite tears, plus farewells never come easy after being together for six long years, Grades 7-12.

Shannon Conway gives her attention to guest speaker Heather Buchanan-Babb. Mrs. Babb traveled from Pennsylvania to keynote the ceremony.

Always with a song in her heart, music enthusiast Katie Wildman belts out Count on Me, a selection from the motion picture Waiting to Exhale. Elana Jack, Barbie Ritchie and Jessica Settlemyre also joined Wildman in the moving rendition.

In the class history presentation, officer David Gabbard recalls accomplishments as well as fond remembrances.

Valedictorian Laura Green addresses classmates one last time.

Presentators keep the attention of Matt Mitchell, Darcie Crum and Craig Cammack.

All smiles, seniors finally get to turn their tassels. Within minutes, 208 red and white caps flew up into the air amidst lots of joyous cheer.

Post Season/Tournament Action

Madison won its first ever sectional championship by placing 10 wrestlers in 14 finals. Of the 10, Derek Black, Wilbur Dattilo, Jason Butler, Jeremy Johnson, Tom Cope, Josh Herring, and Dustin Bentz walked away as champions. Four days later, the Cubs grabbed their first regional title at Batesville. Black, Butler, Herring, Jeremy Fulton, and Bentz went undefeated. The Cubs ended the season at semi-state, but Black advanced to state individually. Black lost in the first round by a 6-3 decision.

Team Accolades

Cubs finished as runnerups in the 18th annual Jeffersonville Classic - the highest finish for Madison since the 1979-80 season when the Cubs finished behind Jennings County. The three individual champions included Bentz, Black, and Butler. The outstanding Cubs won the Hoosier Hills Conference championship, which had never been achieved in the history of the Madison wrestling program. All 13 wrestlers scored points. Varsity Coach Ken Brunner called "this a great accomplishment for our wrestlers".

Individual Accomplishments

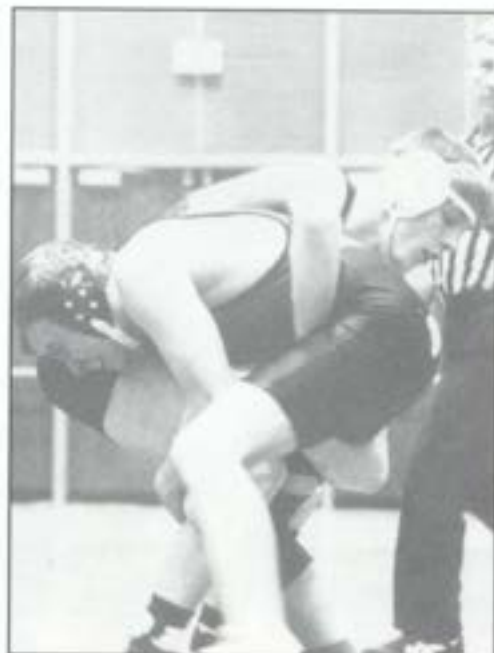

Sophomore Derek Black won championships at the Jeffersonville Classic, Hoosier Hills Conference, sectionals, and regionals in the 103-pound weight class. Advancing to semi-state, Black placed third and qualified for state where he lost in the first round. Black ended the season with a 37-2 record.

Every weekend students filled up their cars to cruise "the strip" and begin their nights. The popular circle began at McDonald's, continued down Clifty Drive and ended at the old T.G.&Y parking lot, where teenagers would then turn around and cruise back. The venture enabled teens to see their friends and also gave them something to do.

Authorities made many attempts to try and stop the teenagers from cruising. The police even sat up orange cones in front of the Madison 6 Cinema. The police also posted loitering signs and handed out tickets for trespassing if a person was caught stopped in a parking lot. Some students received only a written warning while others went home with fines ranging up to $70.

Showing off their school spirit, friends cheer on the Lady Cubs basketball team during the regional game. The Lady Cubs advanced to the final round of regionals, but fell to the New Albany Lady Bulldogs.

A popular fad that moved up the charts in teenage society involved body piercing. More and more adolescents sported hoops and studs in their noses, belly-buttons, tongues, eyebrows, bottom lips and other parts of the body. To many, this created a sickening thought, but a few students dodged the pain to join the trend. It took an average of 12 months for a pierced hole to heal, but body owners considered this a minute factor. Also it was very common to see a guy outline his ears with multiple earrings, which would have been very out of place 20 years ago. Several students said to have their body pierced in peculiar places defined their personality, but most teens voiced different opinions!

Whether students owned a brand new Mustang or a beat up old Jeep, almost every student made car ownership a top priority. Some even got jobs to help pay for their new set of wheels once they turned 16. Many teens said that having a car made their lives easier. Their parents didn't have to provide transportation anymore and they didn't have to catch rides from friends. However, a car presented students with many new responsibilities, including buying gas, fixing repairs, and just keeping it clean. Also many weren't satisfied with just having a car. They added window tintings, new paint jobs, and stereo systems. The cost of these new additions were not cheap. Stereo systems alone ranged from $100 to $8,000!

At the Junior-Senior Prom, Luke Muncy and Sara Blaney wait to have their picture taken. With a room full of black and wine balloons, the students danced to the theme It's Just A Dream.

Whether it be a flower on the ankle or I love Mary on the arm, tattoos stuck out as a popular fad among teens with guts. Such body decorations though projected a lot of disagreement between parents and their teenage children. However, a few students sported the painstaking art. Josh Scott tattooed a Grateful Dead logo on his arm. Trae White marked the upper part of his left arm with a braided design. Billy Jester proudly wore a peace sign on his arm, while Kevin Wright showed his loyalty to the punk band, Misfits, by putting a logo on his stomach. Body art topped the list as cool for the moment, but one thing loomed for sure. Unless surgically removed, the tattoos would be there forever!

Peer Counseling

CLUBS & ACTIVITIES

Adviser Kim Deffenbaugh arranges the schedule for peer counseling. In April, students visited Ball State University to inform a graduate class of counselors, principals, teachers and psychologists about Madison's program. The group also explored careers in the profession.

President Mandi Humphrey organizes money-making projects for the Peer Counseling group. One of their most important and successful projects involved the elementary program, where members served as a Big Brother/ Big Sister.

On behalf of the Peer Counseling program, Mandi Humphrey, David Guarino and Amanda Couch coordinate help for a local family whose house was damaged by fire. In conjunction with the Junior High peer counseling program, the group also raised over $1,300 to help the Madison police department buy a K-9/ drug dog. In addition, the teen counselors also spoke to area sixth graders about the importance of saying NO to drugs and alcohol and finding other ways to have fun.

Meghan Jackson, a member of the Madison Flag Corps, performs her routine at a Friday night football game. Jackson and the 17 other team members labored many grueling hours to memorize and critique their three songs in the show.

On weekends, many students drive to Clarksville for a little shopping. Kara Heath, Kristi Tuttle, Lynzy Dagleish, and Sara Long enjoy a day at River Falls Mall.

Juniors Cari Barnes and Natalie Phillips go over biology notes before taking a big test. As varsity cheerleaders, both juggled a lot of other priorities to handle during the course of the year.

John Hunter lifts weights in gym along with some of his fellow classmates. The sophomore also participated in wrestling, cross country, and track.

Kristen McClelland and Ryan Risk join the battle cry for V-I-C-T-O-R-Y! Miss Pam Smith and Mrs. Kay Bentley sponsored the club which strived to rally enthusiasm for Madison athletics.

The first basketball game of the season prompts a lot of emotion from Addie Thorpe. The Shawe and Southwestern clashes always stirred the most attention.

Miss Cub candidates Jennie Risk, Stevanie Mitchell and Suzanne Dryden enthusiastically cheer on the Cubs. Student Council this year merged the crownings of Mr. and Miss Cub into the same night.

German Club

Secretary Clint Kernan and co-treasurer Justin Williams help coordinate the monthly agenda. To raise money, German Club sponsored a bake sale and hosted its popular Krispy Kreme doughnut drive.

This marked Mr. Paul Keach's second year as the German Club sponsor. Mr. Keach also taught at the Junior High.

German Club officers Craig Cammack, Bryan Cantwell and James Bergdoll present the German flag. In mid-June, nine students participated in a 9-day tour of Germany. Travelers included Cantwell, Cammack, Michelle Chittick, Andy Hossler, Corey Moderau, Doug Pimlott, Derek Thompson, Dia Thompson and Mike Riedel.

Despite the light rain, several students gather around the school flagpole to pray for their friends, schools and communities. Hundreds of teens across America supported the nationally recognized day.

Junior Carrie Hertz laughs at a friend's antics in choir class. After the school day, Hertz actively participated in both choral and dramatic productions.

Spanish partners Brad Kohane and Kori Heath collaborate on an answer. Both seniors also participated in athletics.

Tasha Wells, Steven Schmidt, Kami Holt and Mark True enjoy joining friends at the football bonfire. The annual event attracted over 100 students and parents.

Junior Greg Aulbach studies his material for graphics arts. The class printed most school programs, such as for athletic contests, awards banquets and theatrical productions.

Three days before biology students were to depart on a scuba trip to Florida, bad weather forced a shift in plans. Instead of soaking up rays and exploring ocean depths, Mr.

Jerry Ison, Brooke Robbins, Erica Dunagan, Doug Pimlott, Beth Fisher, Kelli Park and Bev Dunn had to resort to spring break in Jefferson County, IN.

BPA

C·L·U·B·S & A·C·T·I·V·I·T·I·E·S

Right before spring break, Nicholas Buchanan and other BPA members abandon old headquarters and move into the new $3.5 million Tech Wing. This marked Mrs. Donna Wheeler 11th year to sponsor BPA.

Christina Thacker and Laura Rousch compare their final tabulations. Rousch served as club secretary and Thacker as treasurer.

Senior David Gabbard serves as president of BPA. Gabbard received a medal in the Business Law event at the district level.

Senior James Adams works on BPA material for state competition in Indianapolis. Adams, along with David Gabbard, earned medals.

Seniors Bill Wilcox and Mark Pietrykowski chat with Donnie Koontz and Jeremy Johnson at the Varsity M booth. On Senior Honor Day, the club awarded Wilcox and James Adams each a $200 scholarship.

Michael Wise and Josh Schmidt get ready for the crowd. Rival teams like Shawe and Southwestern always resulted in a busy, busy night.

James Adams helps Mr. Gary O'Neal prepare pretzels for the concession stand. The senior earned his Varsity M membership through participation on the varsity baseball and football teams.

Senior Bud Graham steadies a rafter into position on the new building trades home. Graham also dedicated his time to the FFA program.

Jessica Harsin, Addie Thorpe, Laura Weatherbee, Zack Schroeder, John Lubbe and Jill Pyles become "hippies" for a day. Student Council sponsored several different spirit days to boost school morale and lend support to athletic teams.

Tatum Lytle scans through the card catalog in quest of resource books for her term paper. Such study skills enabled the sophomore to maintain a 4.0 average.

Misty Sommer works on her math with the help of teacher Mrs. Diane Monroe. Every Wednesday the students applied their classroom skills in community jobs.

OFFICERS James Bergdoll, president; Katie Wildman, photographer; Elana Jack, treasurer; Jeremy Johnson, special projects; Kellie Park, secretary; Frank Sabelhaus, special projects. NOT PICTURED-David Tatera, vice president. The club sported 100 members.

The History Club continues its tradition of Christmas caroling during the Madison Candlelight Tour of Homes. One of the stops included junior Anne Steinhardt's house.

The songsters also take their holiday cheer to the Broadway Fountain. In May, the club ventured to Central Indiana to visit the Connor Prairie Settlement and several other popular attractions.

Josten's Printing Co. of Clarksville, TN printed the 1996 edition of the Mahisco, the student yearbook of Madison Consolidated High School. The 15-member staff prepared the 136-page publication totally by computerization, except for the insertion of photographs. The 1996 Mahisco was coordinated and produced by students enrolled in the Journalism Yearbook class. Michael Heitz Studio of Madison, IN served as the senior class photographer.

Rosalind E. Harrell and Lorna Naylor, Co-Advisers
 Roger Gallatin, Principal

As the dust bowl in the halls lessened, the results of the $10 million renovation became clearer. Gradually the blueprints transformed into reality. The fight for scholarship dollars commenced. For seniors, it signaled the survival of the fittest. Many chose college life, while others opted for military, marriage or direct entry into the field of work. And four faculty members headed down a path much calmer. Mr. Barry Cooper, Mrs. Lavonne Zimmerman, Mr. Lowell Whitehead and Mrs. Sally Whitaker chose retirement after more than two decades of service. Exchange students Erik Akesson, Paula Lopes, Rocio Sandoval and Mercedes Frezia advanced

One Step Closer to learning English, while Ryan Risk and Mitchell Matt ventured into foreign countries to bridge the culture and language barrier. But regardless of the paths taken, we became One Step Closer to everything.

National Honor Society inductee Kyle Cheatham signs the new membership book. Nearly 50 students qualified for the distinction.

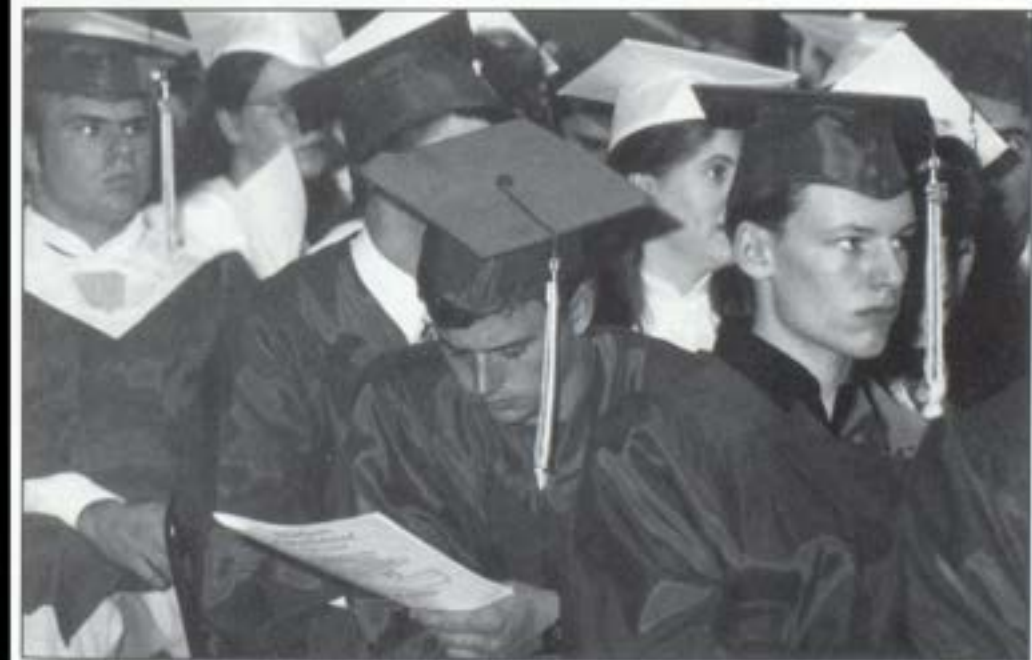

Senior Chris James paints a paper mural for the '96 graduates to sign. DECA drew a different image each month to coincide with the season.

Cherith Mellor, Raymond Johnson, and Alena Newman water the seedlings in the agriculture greenhouse. The students also used the facility to raise tobacco water plants.

In March six students and two chaperones ventured to five Spanish cities. Participants included Kristen McClelland, Emily Hoban, Mrs. Mary Ellen McClelland, Sponsor Angela Elswick, Carrie Hertz, Jessica Harsin, Jennifer Griffin, and Krista Gourley.

Eager to reach alumnus status, Doug Leach double-checks the graduation roster one more time while Mike Riedel soaks up the advice of the guest speaker. Two days after graduation, Riedel left for a nine-day tour of Germany, Austria and Switzerland.

ONE STEP Closer

Junior friends Molly Holt, Kara Dryden and Lisa Peters go for a "dip" in the soothing hot tub. The girls enjoyed a one week cruise to the Cayman Islands over spring break with their parents.

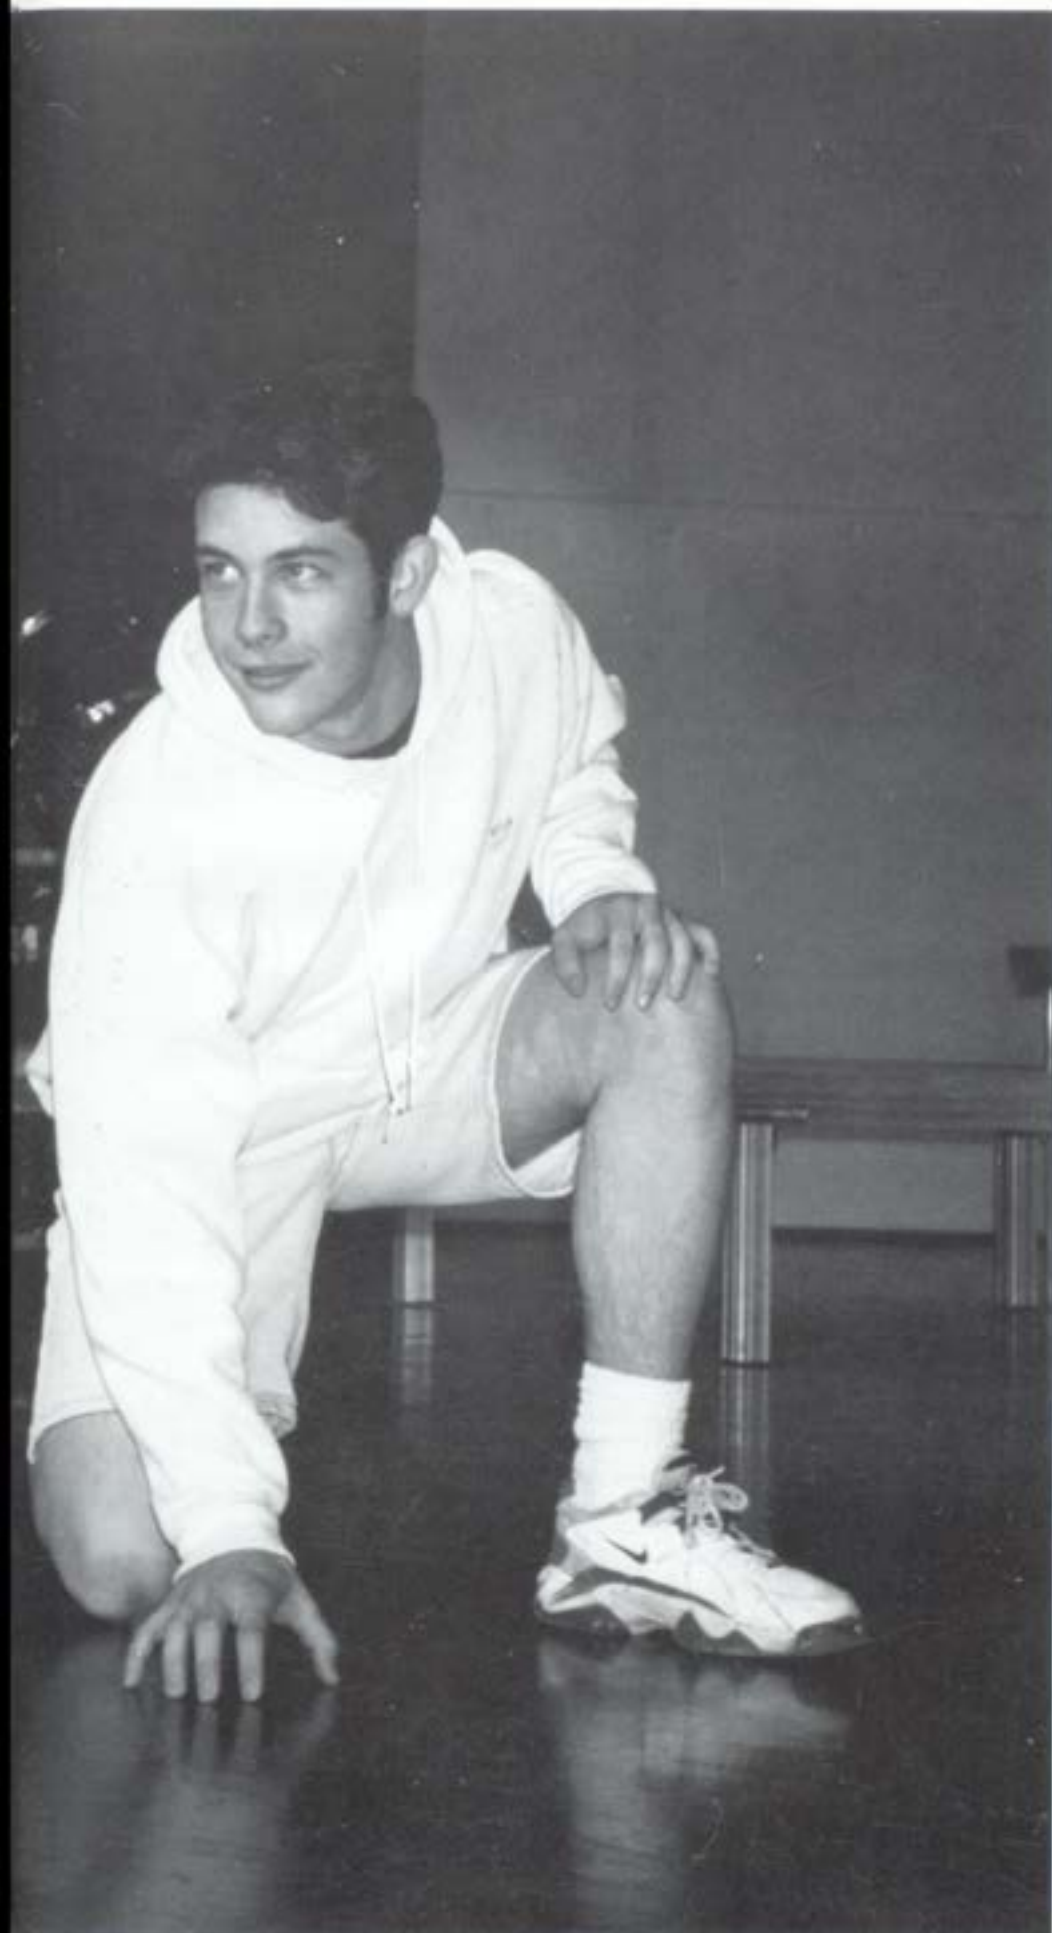

Talk with Tokyo. Most considered that an impossibility in September, but by mid-May the Japanese metropolis loomed only minutes away via the Internet. In its quest to close the global communications gap, Madison Consolidated linked up with the cyberspace highway through the Wilson Education Center, a consortium of Southern Indiana school corporations. Both teachers and students anxiously awaited the chance to get on-line and browse the thousands of information channels and home-pages. The high school's media center served as the base hub with other program areas also seeking Internet access in their own classrooms.

FFA president Julie Elston works with one of the two new aquariums. After occupying a separate facility for years, the agriculture classes moved back to the main building second semester.

Speeches by fellow classmates and guest speaker Heather Buchanan-Babb keep the attention of graduates Derek Thompson and Jill Pyles. The school traditionally uses an alumnus to deliver the keynote address. A former television host, Buchanan-Babb worked in public relations for a Pennsylvania hospital.

Seniors Laura Green and Kathy Woodfill complete a fun filled and busy day as city council members for Student Government Day. The students went on to pass a controversial dog defecation ordinance. Katie Wildman served as student substitute for Madison Mayor Al Huntington.

ONE STEP Closer

First place winner Matt Mitchell portrays a madman in Edgar Allen Poe's Tell Tale Heart in the 85th Annual Custer Oratorical Contest. Other participants included Laura Green, Jessie Jones, Robin Lockridge and Julie Petscher.

As the nine months diminished into days, we took the necessary steps to make the final journey - college applications, spring break to test our independence and drivers license for weekend escapes. For one-third of the student body, it marked the last of their high school days - prom, physics class, lunch detention, crowded lockers and close friendships. Relationships that had blossomed over the years now awaited the test of time. The underclassmen had at least one more year to build memories, cherished thoughts that would last a lifetime. As our walk as high school students came One Step Closer to the end, we realized that graduation would threaten our comfort zone and open the door to new challenges in a different environment. Even though we appeared One Step Closer to the end, in life we were actually One Step Closer to the beginning.

Court jester Russell Benkert tries to spawn a courtly laugh from the crowd. AP English students performed a modern version of the British classic Beowulf.

Nicholas Buchanan, Brandy Hall, Rusty Everage and Wendy Long reflect on a poem that Principal Roger Gallatin issued to all 208 graduates. "As the principal of your high school, I had a job to do. To see that the best education was made available to you. I hope that you will remember all that you have learned. The candle of knowledge is worthless, unless it is lit and burned. ... As you look back on those high school mountains, mere mole-hills are what they'll seem. I'm proud to have been your principal. Together, we made quite a team."

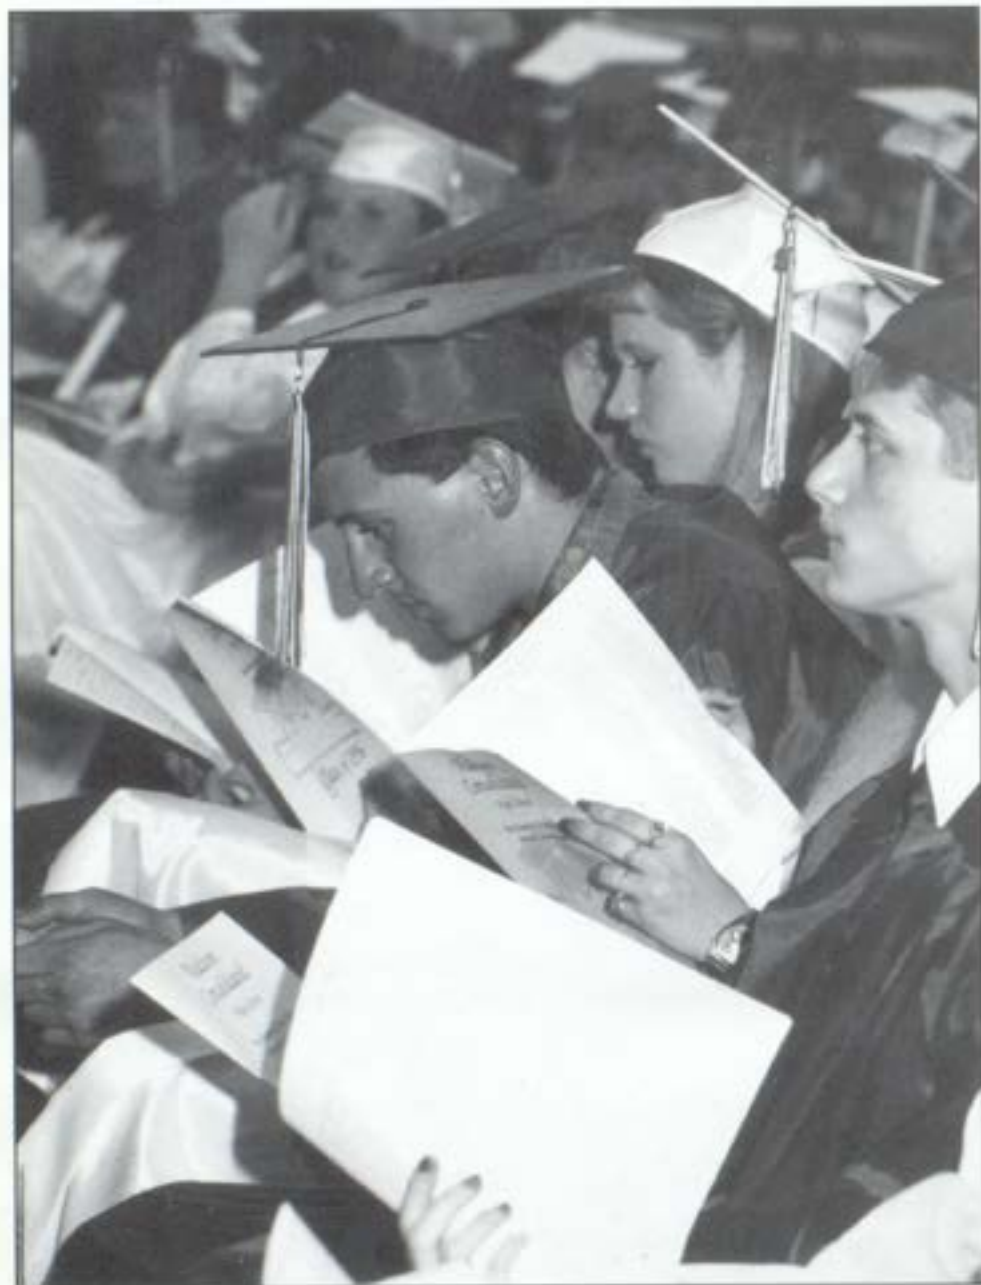

Headed by Ryan Risk, National Honor Society plants a tree in memory of the three deceased members of the Class of 1996 - Jason Davis, Jenny Lynch and Gabe Updegraff.

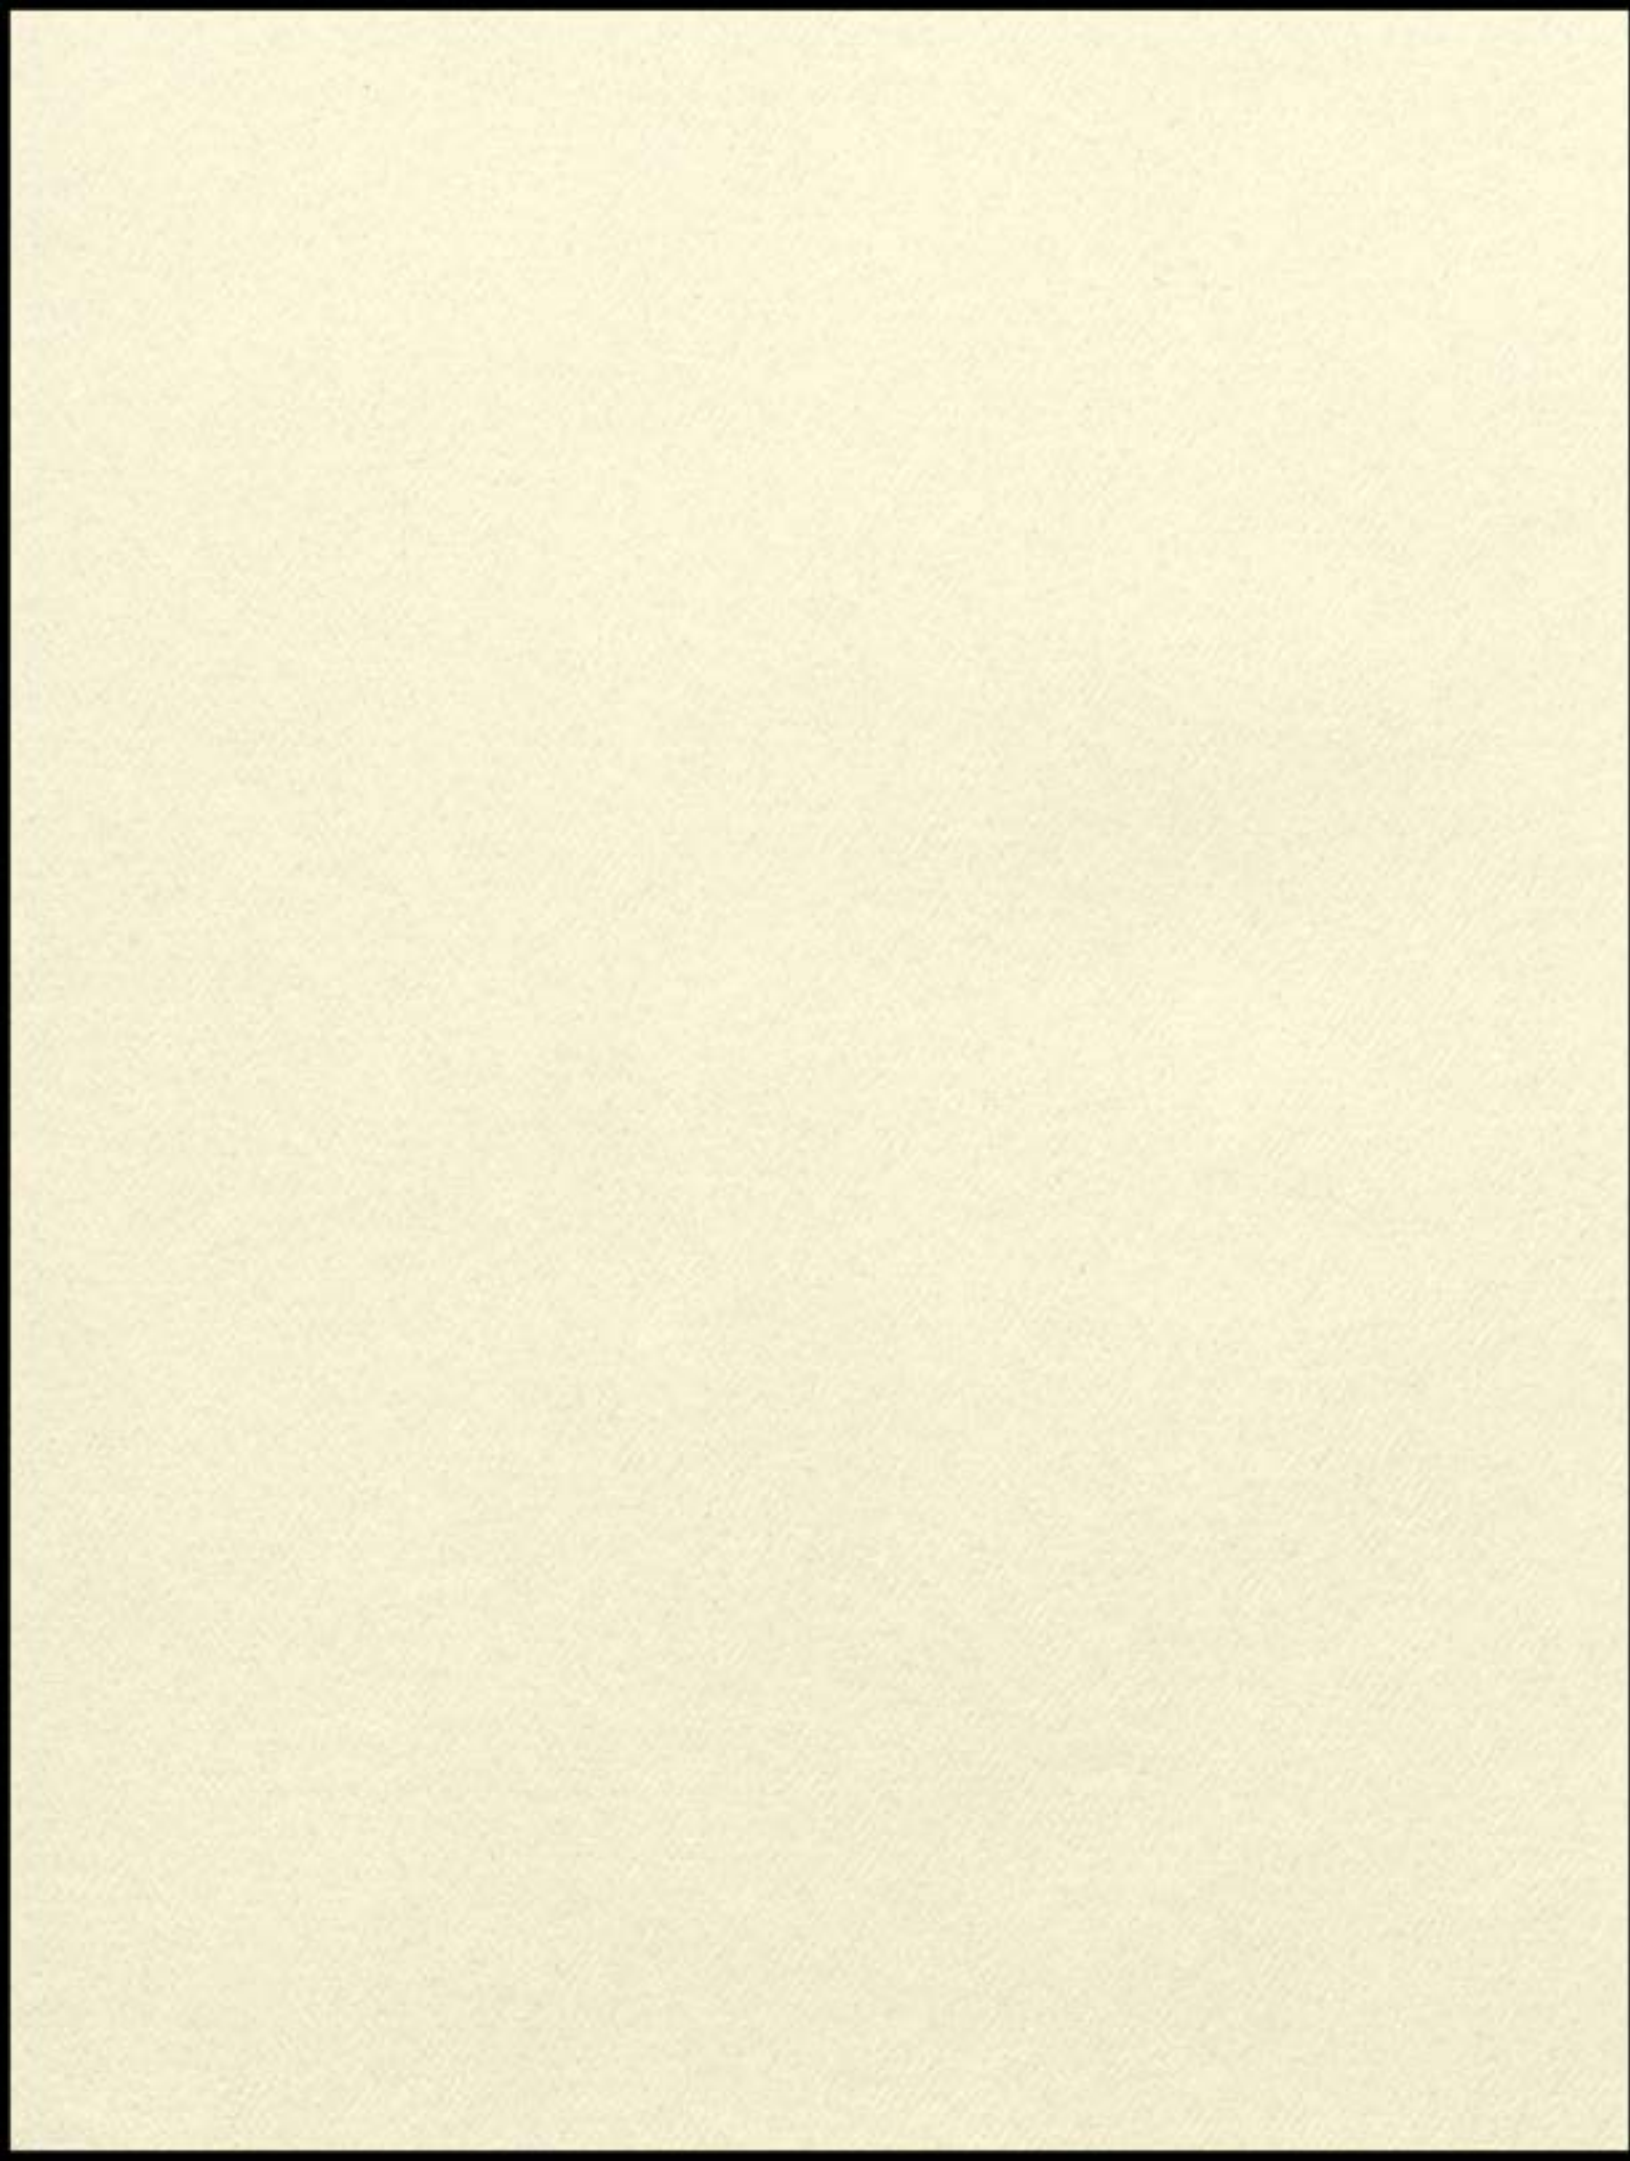

Biology II students Jill Pyles and Cari Barnes work together to dissect a baby pig. The annual project acquainted students with the location and relation of body parts.

ONE STEP
Closer

With the presentation of graduation diplomas only minutes away, Doug Deffner scans the last roster ever to bear the names of the senior class. Commencement marked the final path for the Class of 1996 to walk as one. While the ceremony signaled the passing of one milestone, it advanced 208 students One Step Closer to a new beginning.
