

MAHISCO
1938 mohamed

Foreword

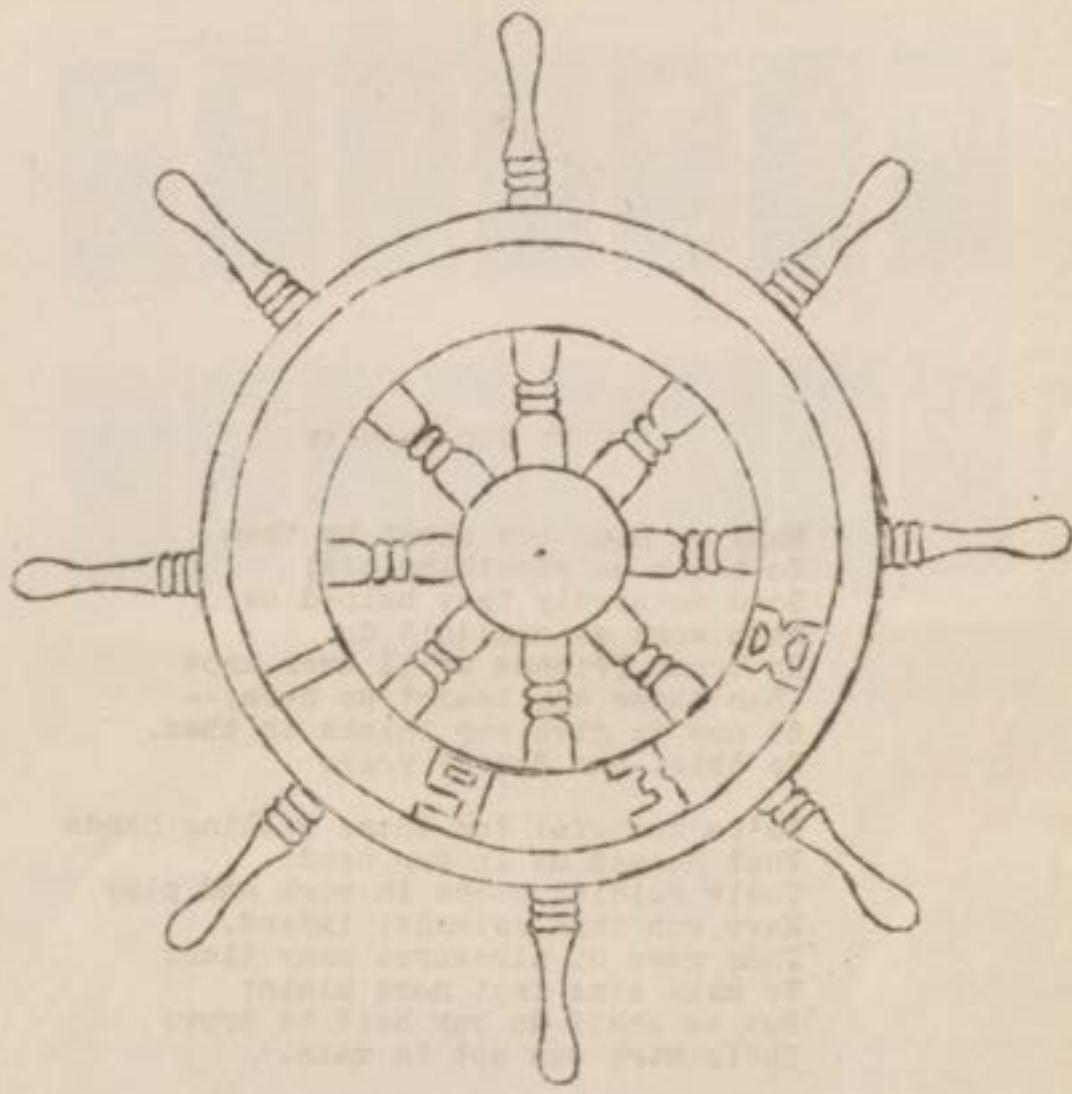

Upon reaching the peak of our high school career we look back over the past four years and smile reminiscently as we recall our trials and tribulations, hopes and fears and the many memories of our joyous good times. The memory of Madison High School and our able teachers and friends will long remain with each Senior. May the spirit and loyalty of this class never depart from Madison High School. That the class of 1938 may never be forgotten, we offer as a memorial, this Mahisco.

Dedication

As an emblem of our appreciation of the untiring efforts put forth in guiding us to our graduation day, we, the Senior Class of 1938, dedicate this Mahisco to our teacher and friend, Miss Opal Sherman.

To Our Faculty

Many an hour was spent by them
To teach us something new;
Good naturedly they helped us
With work we couldn't do
No truer friends we'll ever know
Than those who taught us here,--
So now we give our thanks to them,
In this, our Senior year.

We're grateful for those willing hands
That helped us in our need;
Their guiding steps in work and play
Have won them friends, indeed.
They gave up pleasures many times
To make some fact more plain;
But we shall do our best to prove
Their work was not in vain.

Seniors' Farewell

To M. H. S. and Faculty
We bid a sad adieu.
No years were ever happier
Than these we've spent with you.

To Juniors, Soph, and Freshmen, too
We also say farewell--
Precious memories of you
Within our hearts shall dwell.

The time gets shorter all the while,
The days go flashing by;
Our time is up and we must go--
"Farewell, Madison High!"

Senior History

On nearing the end of our high school days, we glance back over the record of our past four years of work and play to see what has been successfully completed in keeping the class of 1938 in the memory of M. H. S.

'34-'35

In the fall of '34, we entered high school as alert Freshmen and proceeded in the right direction by electing Jane Server president. Two of our members, Jean Montgomery and Lillian Douglass were given roles in the school play. Freshman representatives in the Booster Club were Billy Lyon, Lillian Douglass, Jean Montgomery and Bob McCarty, while in the newly organized Student Council was Billy Lyon. We proved to be quite busy in all the activities.

'35-'36

We returned back to school the next year, not as Freshmen, but as sophisticated Sophomores. For president, we elected Kenneth McKay; for Booster club members; George Hughes, Billy Lyon, Lillian Douglass and Evelyn Sharp; and for Student Council Jane Server. Much to our joy we won the girls interclass volley ball tourney and placed two men on the varsity. Martha Keelty and Joan Vincent very ably performed in the school play, "Cyclone Sally."

'36-'37

Upon becoming upper classmen we elected Billy Lyon to guide us as president. Lillian Douglass, Billy Lyon, Jane Server and George Hughes were elected as our representatives in the Student Council. Junior Joy nite was a great success and the honor of King and Queen of the evening was conferred on George Hughes and Jean Montgomery. Martha Keelty and Jack Matthews showed great ability in the school play, "A Short Cut to Yuma." It was our good fortune for the second time to again be the winner of the girls' interclass volley ball tourney and we contributed three members to the varsity basketball team.

With the assistance of Miss Lotz, we worked very hard and achieved great results in our tireless efforts in making the Prom a success.

'37-'38

At last we have reached our destination--we are exalted Seniors. We conferred the honor of the presidency upon Billy Lyon, while Jane Server, Herman Hoffman, Martha Keelty, Jean Montgomery; and Bob Wilson were our representatives this year in the Student Council. Billy Lyon, George Hughes, Kenneth McKay, and Charles Kasper were members of this year's varsity. Polly Saltzgaber was crowned Queen at the Junior dance. Jean Montgomery, Martha Keelty, Mary K. Quinn and John Reed all very ably performed in the school play, "The Take Off."

We regret that due to illness, several of our members were unable to complete their high school careers with us.

The last weeks of our Senior year in Madison High School have been filled with many activities which we shall never forget.

Class Will

We, the Senior Class of 1953 of Madison High School, City of Madison, Jefferson County, State of Indiana, having been bestowed with unworldly mentality and wisdom do hereby make this our last will and testament:

Article I

Individual Bequests:

President Bill Lyon leaves his enthusiasm for "bringing home the bacon" to the next year's basketball squad.

George Hughes leaves his outstanding ability in several phases of school life to Mose Cochrane. No, Mose, you don't have to giggle. Jean is not included.

Anna Mundt wills her jolly chuckle to Doris Baker. We won't know Doris without her familiar "tee-hee."

Ralph Pratt leaves his tendency to play pranks to John Neal. Ralph believes if some of the monkey business were concentrated it could be more easily watched.

To Mae Schneider go the giggles of Ruth Hancock and Mary E. Quinn. Due to Mae's diminutive size, Ruthie and Mary E. think she needs some way of attracting attention.

Kenneth McKay wills his nickname, "Butch", to Junior DeGar so M. H. S. will have a new tough guy next year.

The Petrakos twins will their similarity in appearance to Rena Mundt and Catherine Curtis. Enough said.

The steadfast gaze of Bill Simmons is left to Virginia Brooks. "This is guaranteed to stop all unnecessary rotary movement of the eyeball," says Mr. Simmons.

Emily Thacker leaves her poetic ability to Fritz Cowan. Let's see if you can dash off a sonnet in the best style of Percy Bysshe Shelley, Fritz.

William Meyers thinks M. H. S. would be better off if B. Y. Chemore had his bashfulness. How about it, gals?

Jean Montgomery leaves her friendly personality to Ronald Wyatt. What? And break up Emily's monopoly!

Mary Major wills her ability in Public Speaking to Mr. Elson. Combined with what he has, Mr. Elson should develop into a second Patrick Henry (or was it Roy Atwell).

The dignity of Bill Black goes to Mary Eunice Munice. At least there will be one dignified Senior next year.

Jeanne Penn leaves her slow way of talking to Norma Niesse so Norma can be the sophisticated lady.

Bob Bethea wills his changeable voice to someone in the Public Speaking class of next year. Monotones are taboo in that class.

Just to make certain that M. H. S. will not be without at least one red-head for the next three years, Jane Server wills her ruddy lock to Freshman Pat Davis.

Shepard Stivers wills his studious nature to Mildred Kahn.

Lillian Douglass leaves her remarkable ability in Journalism to the Madisonian staff of next year. What would our school paper be without it?

Bertie Langsdale wills her sweet disposition to Bob Willick.

Bobby Wilson wills his interest in the laboratory to any deserving Junior who has an aversion to science but realizes it is on the best of required subjects.

Polly Saltzgaber leaves her unruffled serenity to Mr. Rothert. That should come in handy in choral classes, eh, Mr. Rothert?

Mr. Clarence N. Scott (Ticker to you) leaves his manner of a sophisticated sheik to Richard Pryor.

Gladys Tingle wills her shorthand ability to William Semon. Now maybe he can read his own notes.

Rita Sheets leaves her athletic fame to Laura Jean O'Neal. P.S. Rita, can you afford it?

Elmer Jones's good luck in being the only boy in the advanced shorthand class is left to ladies' man Verl Giesler.

Mary Schumaker wills her shy smile to Elbert Green. That broad "Green" grin must go!

Jack Matthews leaves his ability to swing it to Dale Harrod. Give us a few hot licks, Dale.

The quiet manner of Gladys Hugeback goes to Dorothy Abernethy. 'Neff said.

An elephant never forgets; neither does John Thomas Reed, so he leaves his excellent memory to Louis Hill. Miss Sherman should appreciate this.

Russel Thomas wills his serious outlook on life to Jack Gans. All play and no work makes Jack a first class pest. Just ask Mrs. Reul.

Joan Vincent wills her long stride to Charles Harrod in the hope that next year's tardiness will be cut in half. Or do you need longer legs, I Shot?

Dorothy Grebe wills her charming dimples to Cecil Heath, Ah! A male edition of Shirley Temple.

Tommy Klein leaves his physique to Mr. Wilson---in case Latin gets too tough for some of your students, Mr. Wilson

Martha Uebel wills her quiet and peaceful attitude to Martha Petrakos.

Earl Lewis leaves that "rugged individual" stuff to Ralphie Knoebel. Please be careful, Ralph.

Druzilla Poindexter leaves that Poindexter "way" to Mildred McNeal. For particulars, Millie, just see Chaudy.

Herman Hoffman wills his good natured attitude toward heckling to brother Joe. These farmers need some protection from us city slickers.

Wilhelmina Burris leaves Raymond Wolf to Imogene Buck anan.

Charles Kasper bequeathes to Benny Hassfurder his hill-billy manners when he goes' to the "Great Big City."

Martha Keelty wills her classic profile to Mary Poindexter. Would you rather be classic or cute Mary?

Kenneth Giesler leaves his reputation as a Don Juan to Christie Cranford. Christie has all the qualifications but so far he has been holding out on the weaker sex. Loosen up, Christie, and do a better job than Greasy.

The attractive appearance of James Schafer is left to anyone interested in making feminine hearts flutter.

Benny Schuck wills his bashful blushing to Audrey Armstrong. For definite information, Audrey, watch Benny when he is in a blushing mood.

Jessie Coppage leaves her quiet, round-a-bout way to George Graham.

Morris Kidwell leaves his black wavy hair to Tommy Demaree. Now Tommy, with a little mascara you will be the Indiana Robert Taylor.

Article II

Class Bequests:

We, this class of 1938, do leave to our dearly beloved Madison High School, our ambition for a better (if that is humanly possible) institution of learning; our enthusiasm to lighten each task; and our undying loyalty and faith in the ability of our faculty.

To the Juniors we leave our poise and sophisticated manner which is so essential to every Senior.

To the underclassman (whom we couldn't do without), we bequeath this old saying that "Experience is the greatest teacher,"--but we have some pretty fine ones in M.H.S.; so don't disregard them entirely.

In witness whereof, we hereby affix our seal this twentieth day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight.

The class of 1938

PROPHECY

Around The World and Back

All aboard: At last they are off, after waiting a mere three days for the Captain, our own Kenneth Giesler, who was never known to be on time in his life to arrive.

The two great chemistry students, who for twenty-five years have taught the unfortunate students of M. H.S. biology, chemistry, and physics, namely, Bob Wilson and Robert Bethca, are making a world cruise in hopes of finding their former friends of Madison High who graduated in '38.

Setting sail from the New York Harbor on the great ship "Back or Bust," they were surprised to see Martha Uebel also aboard. She informed them that she was a French buyer for Marshall Fields, and was on her way to Paris. "I am sure you will just adore the trip," she replied, "I have only been across twenty-six times and each time I like it better than the one before."

Having decided that they would get acquainted with the passengers aboard, the two Roberts went to the ballroom. Whom should they find there but "Buddy" Scott and his famous "Rhythmeers", Jack Matthews, pianist and his nation wide trio, Misses Jane Sorver, Joan Montgomery, and Martha Keelty.

Before retiring Bob Wilson demanded that they take a brisk walk around the deck. There they found another one of their schoolmates, Dru Poindexter who looked very sad and lonesome. Being a gentlemen, Mr. Bethca asked if he could be of any assistance. "No, thank you," responded Dru, "I am on my way to Milledwodna, to get a divorce from my fifth husband, and am now trying to lead a quiet life."

"Sailing, sailing, over the ocean blue,"-and the first stop was "Merry Old England." There they found Russell Thomas, who is making millions on Mr. Cottman's cold light. It was a lucky day for him when he took chemistry in '38.

Lillian Douglass was also found in England. Being our noted writer and journalist, you can imagine her occupation. She was writing the fourth edition of "How to Influence Strangers and Get Ahead."

While walking through the streets, they were surprised to see a great carriage pull up close to them and stop. They were even more surprised when someone called their names, but their surprises soon turned to shouts of joy, when Bill Lyon, our '38 class president and now a great broker, greeted them.

"If you will come with me," he told them, "I shall lead you to another of our group." Being too amazed to speak they entered the carriage and rode down the streets to a great, white mansion. This Bill told them was his home. Imagine their surprise when he rang for his secretary, and it was none other than Rita Sheets.

Polly Saltzgaber and Jeanne Ponn were the next to be found. They had a very distinguished fashion-shop in Paris, and as they were both queens of beauty, business was grand.

Two of M.R.S. greatest basketball players, George Hughes and Kenneth McKay were touring the country in search of unknown talent for their "Stars on Broadway." Just like Ziegfield's the Bobs decided.

The next of the group the boys found were the world famous aviatrix'—Mary Major and Dorothy Grebe. These girls had gained great fame by their death defying stunts and were now making a public appearance tour.

Herman Hoffman was found in Switzerland. There he had a large herd of cattle and goats. He informed the boys that the butter and cheese business was very good.

At a corner drug store in Genoa, Italy they were surprised to be waited on by Charles Kasper, who had come to Italy to find his fortune as a pharmacist.

While the two Bobs were strolling the streets of Venice, they were attracted to a large carnival in the city square. They decided they needed a little recreation so they bought two tickets to the "strong man" side show. Were they ever amazed when the strong man turned out to be Elly "Mickey Mouse" Simmons.

An added feature at the carnival was a boxing match between the two heavy-weight champions of Italy, (they have two as both are so evenly matched) the terrible Turk Klein and Beamon Bennie Schuck.

What could be more enticing than a good chocolate soda? The boys were bewildered when they found "Birdie" Langsdale, the chief soda jerk, busily at work.

The most surprising experience of the journey was the finding of William "Eggshell" Black, who had mysteriously disappeared. But now Bill is Manufacturing "home made" concis in Indo-China.

The next stop was Greece. There we find the Petrakos twins, Christina and Catherine, operating another P.B. Cafe. Due to the business courses they both took in high school, they seem to have no trouble at all.

In China the boys were surprised to find several of their class friends, Gladys Tingle, Gladys Hugback, and Anna Murat as missionaries, who seemed to be fulfilling their life's occupation very well.

Mary Kathryn Quinn was found in Manchuria operating a "Good Will" hospital. She informed the two Bobs that Joan Vincent was a head nurse and was performing her duties very capably.

The boys found Elmer Jones in Venice studying art. Some day he hopes to win great recognition as Da Vinci.

John "Baby Leroy" Reed was found in China managing a laundry. The sign outside read--"Reed and Son's Laundry.

Bob Bethea discovered Ralph Pratt in Africa. He is now the world's greatest scout leader in the southern hemisphere.

William Meyers, a millionaire oil magnate, was also found in China.

Ruth Hancock has won nation-wide fame as a second Frank "Bring 'Em Back Alive" Buck. Her latest capture was a white elephant. Ruthie intends to carry out this work to enlarge the zoo's for the United States.

Arriving at Hollywood the two were bewildered when they saw the names of Earl "Clark Gable" Lewis and Emily "Zasu Pitts" Thacker in lights outside the great Trocadero. At last these two have accomplished their life's ambition--to break into Hollywood.

The boys arrived at San Francisco bay, and were greeted by Mary Schumaker, who is a teacher at the University of California. She told them that they had won great fame for their trip and she could tell them where the rest of the class could be found.

James Schafer and Morris Kidwell were members of the Supreme Court. They are giving thanks to Mr. Salm for the great teachings in American Problem's class.

Wilhelmina Burris is the greatest librarian known and refers to Madison High as the best place to gain knowledge.

Shepherd Stivers, who is the great, great, grand nephew of Henry Ford, is making his millions in the one and only Ford production.

Back home again in Indiana, and Jessie Coppage was there, anxious to find out all about her school pals. Every one knows Jessie, as she has taken Mrs. Reul's place, teaching commercial at M. H. S.

"Sailing, sailing over the bounty shore
Around the World and here we are,
Back home again, once more."

22-Senior Tea. Baccalaureate.
26-Commencement--the end and the beginning.

The School Play

The school play, "The Take Off," was presented Thursday evening, December 9. The play, a hilarious, side-splitting comedy, was a great success due to the directing of Miss Sherman and the effort put forth by the cast.

The setting was of a typical American family which was low on funds. Mr. Lawson, the father, was to receive $50,000 from his wealthy uncle if he remained single all his life. Since Mr. Lawson had a wife and three children, many complications arose when Uncle Edward Murray arrived. In an exciting climax, everything became clear, and the plot unfolded to a happy ending.

The characters were as follows:

Alfred Lawson	Jack Gans
Luella Lawson	Anna Kasper
Jean Lawson	Mary K. Quinn
Phil Lawson	C. K. Salm
Marjorie Lawson	Martha Petrakos
Ralph Foster	Louis Hill
Julius Chugwater	John Reed
Edward Murray	James Schafer
Nelda Summers	Virginia Matthews
Martha Minton	Jean Montgomery
Mrs. Sloan	Martha Keelty

"Mountain Mumps"

"Mountain Mumps" was the Senior class play presented by the Senior Class on the night of April 27-28.

Peg Sothern, a charming young girl, enters the household of a mad family and is forced to play a role about which she knows nothing. Suddenly she wakes to the realization that she is a niece and is expected to ward off starvation with her paltry earnings. She accepts the task and the riot begins. When she gets the low-down on the family she decides to give them one of the most exciting interludes that ever disturbed the tranquility of their existence.

The door opens and trouble keeps popping in. A broker to foreclose the mortgage on the home....He finishes by proposing marriage to mad Mrs. Chilton. A modern youth who comes to sneer falls for Florence, the eldest daughter. An officer who comes to arrest Cal, the spoiled son is captured instead by the alluring Sue. A young inventor who comes to ask Mrs. Chilton to perfect his Gold Mine....He not only finds his end of the rainbow but walks into enough romance to keep him busy for the remainder of his life. A society matron and her daughter witness the down fall of the Chiltons. A physician comes to cure a case of mumps and finds the rarest species of this malady that ever was imported from India.

And to think that all this was accomplished by a lovely girl who started the eruption of the volcano and then turned the loss to milk and honey.

Senior Awards

On the night of commencement, May 26, the yearly awards were presented to the Seniors. These awards cover a wide field and so included many different pupils.

Herff-Jones Awards

The Herff-Jones Company annually presents three medals to the graduating seniors. One is the scholastic medal which goes to the girl or boy standing highest in his class scholastically. This was awarded to Jean Montgomery. The athletic medal went to Charles Kasper who has been outstanding in his participation in sports. The third medal is the activities medal which was presented to Jane Server for an active part in numerous activities during her four years in high school.

Custer Contest

The annual Custer Oratorical Contest was held May 6 at the Brown Gym. Those five participating in the contest were the five highest seniors scholastically in the class. The contestants were coached by Miss Sherman and judged by three judges from Hanover College. The judging was done on the basis of the contestant's stage presence, voice, interpretation of the story and ability to enter into it.

The contestants were: Jean Montgomery, Jane Server, George Hughes, Jessie Coppage, and Lillian Douglass. The winner of the first prize of thirty dollars was Jean Montgomery. Lillian Douglass was the winner of second and was awarded fifteen dollars. The other three contestants each received five dollar awards.

Kiwanis Medals

The K.B.F. (Kiwanis Builds Forever) medals were presented to the boy and girl who ranked highest in the class. George Hughes and Jean Montgomery received these from the Kiwanis Club.

Rotary Award

As in years before, the Rotary Club gave five dollars to the boy who most exemplifies what Rotary stands for—"He profits most who serves best." This is awarded on the basis of scholarship and activities. The one receiving this was Bill Lyon.

Music Club

The Madison Music Club selected Martha Keelty as the senior who had taken part in the most musical activities during her four years and presented her with five dollars.

Business and Professional Women's Club

The Madison Business and Professional Women's Club selected one student who has been outstanding in the Commercial department and awarded Gladys Tingle ten dollars.

Hi-Y Club

The high school Hi-Y Club awards five dollars every year to the senior boy who has been an active Hi-Y member and who has taken part in other school activities as well as keeping up his scholarship. This was presented to Bob Bethia.

Senior Class Song

Thanks for the memories,
Of Pencils, pen and ink,
The laboratory sink,
And squeaky desks, assembly pests,
And faces that turned pink,
How lovely it was.

Thanks for the memory,
Of Mr. Wilson's jokes, Moffet Inglis' cokes,
The sectional, the regional,
The Conference record broke,
How lovely it was.

Many's the time that we skipped school,
And many's the time we wore tardy;
Oh, well, Mr. Salm hale and hearty,
We did have fun, and no harm done;
So thanks for the memory

Of Mr. Muncie's tact,
The senior play's third act;
We're sorry to disclose it,
But we wish we could come back,
We thank you so much.

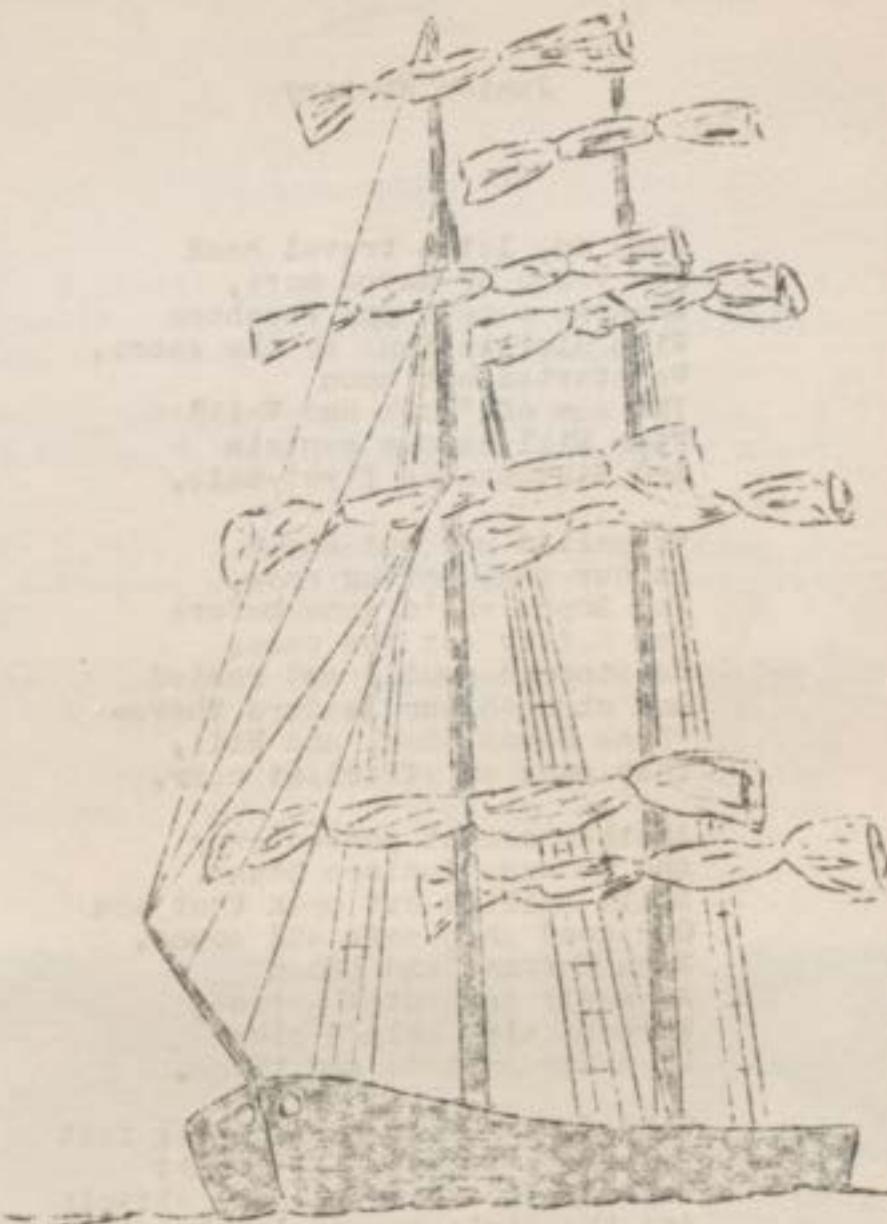

Memorial to Joe Bayne

As we entered our Junior year in high school, we had the misfortune of losing one of the most beloved members of our class, Joe Bayne. Joe, who was born in Milton, Kentucky and entered our class when we entered Junior High School, died as the result of an automobile accident that he suffered during the summer. He was a new boy among us, but with his winning personality, coupled with his athletic ability and scholastic standing, it did not take him long to make many friends.

As time went on and we entered high school, we began to know Joe better and had many good times together. His ill timed death came at a period when he was just beginning to reap some of the rewards he so richly deserved. He was slated for a place on the varsity basketball squad and he was just starting to do some outstanding work in track. Joe had taken part in two interclass tournaments and had helped to manage the girls in their interclass attempt.

Because of his genial disposition, his constant display of school spirit and his whole hearted cooperation in all school activities, he will long be remembered by every member of the class of 1938.

Junior History

Come on, let's travel back
Two years or maybe more,
When we were happy Freshmen
With disillusionments by the score.
We started out upon
The sea of "Work and Wait"
With Hill as our captain
And Stutsman as first-mate.

We sailed way out ahead
In our fast moving race,
The Sophs who'd gone before
Had deftly set the pace.
We stopped awhile and rested
And changed our leaders there--
'Twas Hanna then, and Hill,
They made an efficient pair.

Another moment passed away
And we were Juniors bound
Still sailing out upon that sea
Our good ship safe and sound.
With Hoffman and Lemen
As newly appointed guides,
We were also helped along
By natures winds and tides.

This Junior year had one big feat
The Prom did take the light;
The boys so very tall and stately
And the girls were a lovely sight.
The food was simply excellent--
The orchestra was grand
The program too, was very nice...
We Juniors made a stand!

Junior Song
(I Double Dare You---Tune)

Farewell, dear Seniors,
We're sorry you're through,
But, Parting Seniors,
We're happy for you,
Since now you're leaving
It's time to depart
We're sure we'll miss you,
So let's be gay
Till the very last day;
You've been our schoolmates
For only three years,
You've seen us through
All our joys and our tears;
Now that you're going away
We wish you lots of luck,
We double dare you
To make your lives worth while,
Farewell, dear Seniors.

GOALS

Sonhs

In the late summer of '36
Some country jakes and city slicks,
Entered a school of unrenown;
A high school in Madison town.

Their purpose was as you shold see,
To learn it all, from a to z.
The assembly served as their home room
Where they were hard on Rector's broom.

Teachers Cottman and Ernst were at their best
Upholding order, and downing jest
But these young folks had a heart
They were only kiddies, from the start.

In a few weeks they settled down,
Studied and worked with never a frown.
They worked not in vain, I dare say,
Promotion was their hard earned pay.

Till now, '38 Sonhs are they
Getting their lessons every day,
Work they love, who cares for play,
(Except for half of every day !!)

Seventh Row: Mr. Wilson, Miss Keelty, Mr. Elson.

Sophomore History

After having a delightful summer vacation, we returned to school, a group of determined, anxious Sophomores. We realize we are a step farther than we were a year ago, but we shall not forget our eventful Freshman year.

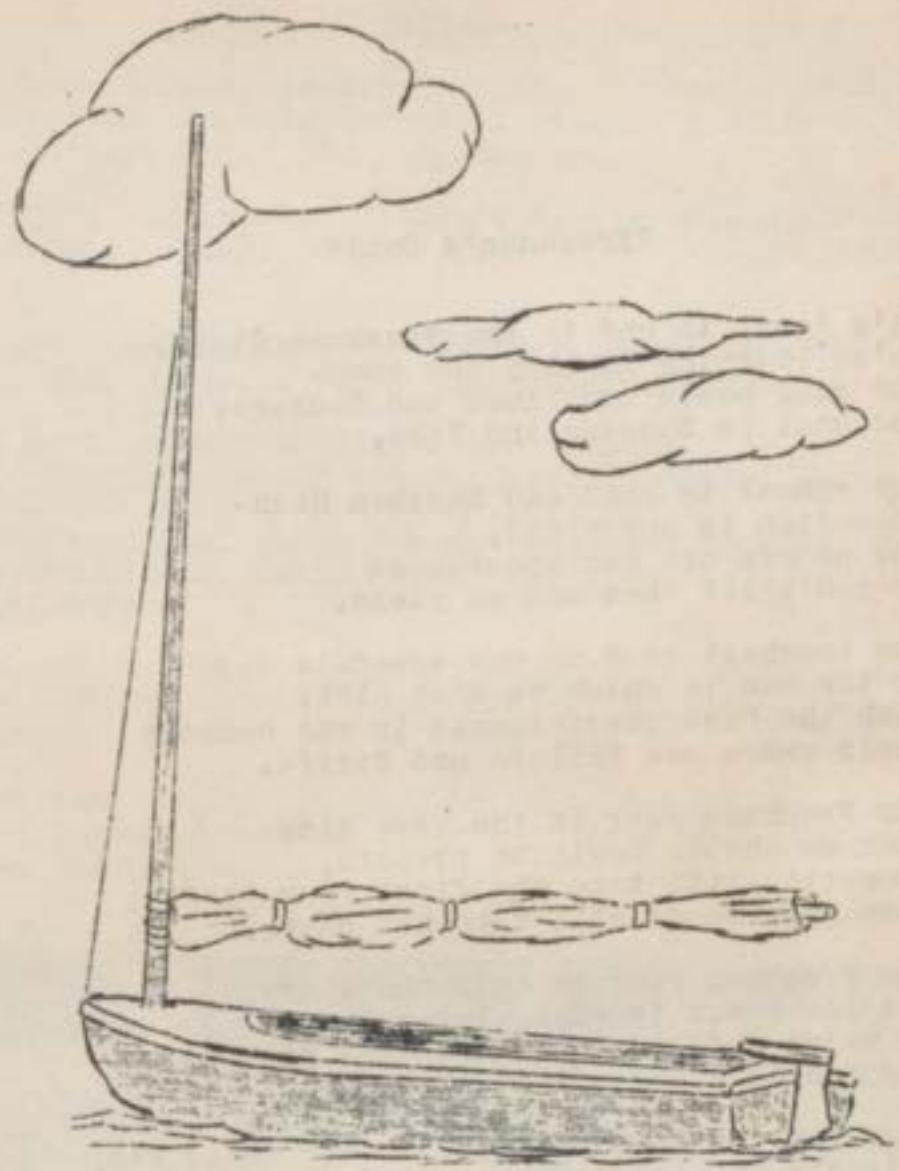

We entered Madison High School in the year of 1936 as a group of timid pupils. That year we elected Vera Lawton, Helen Wolf, Dale Stephenson, and Helen Crutchlow for class officers. Bobby Douglass and Lloyd Miller were chosen to represent us in the Student Council.

During our first semester as Sophomores, we lost one of our members, Norma Jean Pratt. She was outstanding because of her scholastic ability and pleasing personality.

We have Bill Lockridge as our class president this year. Other class officers are Mary C. Scheser and Frieda Burkhardt. We are well represented in all activities and organizations. Two of our members took an active part in the school play.

On January 10, 1938, we, the Sophomores held a class party which was very successful. The party started with a pitch-in supper. Dancing and games furnished amusement for a delightful evening. Our party turned out to be one of the most eventful happenings of the year.

Our class colors are blue and gold, and they will be flying as a sign of victory many times during our high school years.

FROSH

"Freshmen's Goal"

It's "goal to go" in the Freshman Class,
We're learning to play the game--
The goal posts are Pluck and Courage;
The goal is Success and Fame.

Our school is good old Madison High--
Education is our field,
The people are our spectators
We can't let them see us yield.

The toughest game on our schedule
Is the one in which we meet LIFE.
With the best quarterbacks in the country
Their names are Failure and Strife.

Our Freshman year is the very time
When we should begin to prepare,
Education will take the first four years,
Then Experience will take her share.

The Freshman year is only the start,
But the start is what always counts--
So we've decided to get started right,
And tackle Strife with a bounce.

Just give us support and I'm sure we'll win,
It's the people's support from the stands--
That will help us win in the battle with LIFE
And we'll conquer with willing hands.

Eighth Row: Mr. Kehrt, Mr. Cottman.

Freshmen History

We came into high school in September, 1937. Although we were new, we tried to follow the examples of the upper classmen. We found it rather difficult.

We didn't elect class officers but contributed to the other school organizations. We elected Sara Hill and Donald Server to represent us in the Student Council and also for King and Queen at the Junior Dance.

Six freshmen boys joined the Hi-Y and Martha Jean Petrakos was chosen for the school play. Most of the girls joined the G. A. A. or the Sunshine Society.

Though we are now but Freshmen we are looking forward to our Sophomore year and hope we can again hold such a fine record.

Third Row: Bill Lockridge, Mr. Wilson, Miss Sherman, Mr. Salm, Billy Cole.

Student Council

With the beginning of the current school year, the Student Council began to reach a more important position in the school's curriculum. Heretofore, although there has been a Student Council, it has not been quite so active. Some of the things this year's council has accomplished as a whole have been: ticket selling, bringing to the student's mind the consciousness of his room's appearance, attempting to cut down tardiness by deducting credit from the entire room, advertising all school functions, etc., There still remain a few things to be done, but only those which must be worked out over a period of time; such as, the fostering of a better understanding between the pupil, the council and the teacher.

The president of this '37-'38 year was George Hughes, who with the help of all members and teachers in charge has worked for and succeeded in making the organization an active, useful, and necessary part of Madison High School.

The committees: the program, civics, and publicity, composed the council's work.

The program committee under the direction of Miss Sherman, teacher in charge, and chairman Anna Kasper, prepared practically all of the assembly entertainment and programs which were presented this year.

The civics committee with Vice-President Janet Friedersdorff as chairman and under the supervision of Mr. Wilson, faculty advisor, assumed a position of some importance in the work which they did. The committee's job was that of grading the home rooms on the efficiency with which they were conducted.

The publicity committee had as its chairman, Jean Montgomery, and was sponsored by Mr. Salm. The purpose of this committee was to create the idea among the people in the community that the school is really an important unit in the development of better citizens of the future.

Sunshine Society History

The Sunshine Society, founded in 1923, is the largest organization in the school, and one to which every girl may belong.

Many and varied are the yearly activities of the club, but the general aim is to spread sunshine throughout the school and community. This year Christmas and Thanksgiving baskets were distributed to needy families, and a Christmas party was given for needy children.

This society, too, promotes friendliness among the girls, and one occasion greatly enjoyed by all is "Peanut Week" at which time each girl daily remembers her "Peanut Pal" in some thoughtful manner.

It is the custom every year for the society to give a tea for the Senior girls and their mothers. This year it was held on May 22.

The organization again helped in the addressing, stamping, and mailing of the tuberculosis seals for the Jefferson County Tuberculosis Association.

The State Convention for 1938 was held at North Vernon and a large delegation from our school represented us.

The officers for this year were:

President	Jean Montgomery
Vice President	Anna Kasper
Recording Sec'y	Pauline Messmore
Treasurer	Gladys Tingle
Corresponding Sec'y	Sara Hill
General Chairman	Lillian Douglass
Sponsor	Mrs. Reul

Third Row: Kenneth Sauer, George Kalb, Kenneth McKeand, Kenneth Giesler, John Layton, Louis Hill, Billy Cole.

Madisonian History

The Madisonian, the school paper, strives to carry out the ideals of the entire school. This year marks the eighteenth consecutive anniversary of the paper. At present, the subscribe's number two-hundred, which is a slight increase over last year.

Sponsored by Miss Sherman, as literary advisor, and Mr. Reul as business advisor, the paper is put out every two weeks at a cost of twenty-five cents a semester.

The Madisonian was formerly put out by a staff chosen from the entire school, but for the past two years has been supervised by the journalism class in addition to other students from within the school.

Several alterations were made in the staff since the first semester. The present staff is:

Editor	Lillian Douglass

Girls' Athletic Association

The G. A. A. is one of the most active organizations of Madison High School. The officers of this association for the year were as follows:

President	Joan Vincent
Vice President	Margaret Klein
Secretary	Mary Gene Lemem
Treasurer	Dale Stephenson
Sponsor	Miss Virginia Ernst

Points are gained through skill and participation in the five major sports; volley ball, baseball, basketball, hiking, and tennis. Badminton and bowling are to be included as minor sports.

The organization is an accepted member of the New Indiana League of High School Girls' Association. As a final award, the league gives a State Plaque. This is the goal all the girls hope to achieve.

Industrial Arts Club

First Row: Bob Bethea, Bob Hodgers, Bob Perry, Charles Kasper, Kenneth Giesler, Buddy Scott, Bill Simmons, Herman Hoffman.

Fourth Row: Cranford, Strickland, Geyer, Dunn, Weinberg, Kelly, Lawton.

Fifth Row: Griffith, Reed, Hoffman, Eckert, Gans, Hyden, Gibson.

The band was very much in evidence at all home basketball games to which it has added much in the way of pep and enthusiasm. The band journeyed to Hanover College in November to play for the Hanover-Ball State football game and took a prominent part in the high school musical on February 24.

The orchestra has been much in demand at the school plays and provided music for the Custer Contest on May 6. Trips to North Madison High School and Central High School to furnish commencement music were included in the orchestra's activities for the year.

"Cubs Reporter"

The Cubs lost to Corydon
In their first scheduled game;
But at Scottsburg the end
Was not quite the same.
North Madison came
But left feeling blue.
We tanned Edinburgh
Then we beat Brownstown, too.
North Vernon and Greensburg
Both took us to town,
But when Vevay arrived
We soon cut them down.
Away to Lawrenceburg--
We beat them by four
But Salem, the villains
They doubled our score.
Scottsburg and North Vernon
Both finished behind,
And then comes Aurora
For three of a kind
The Cubs lost to Salem,
If I'm not mistaken
But they visited Manual
And brought home the bacon.
Then to town came Shelbyville
And they won a swell game,
But the Batesville battle
Turned out to be tame
Vevay, Aurora, Lawrenceburg--
These games the Cubs won;
And the schedule is over
With that final gun.
But then comes the Sectional
And we won it, too
Now there isn't a reason
Why we should feel blue.

"On to the Regional, Cubs!" we cried
"On to the Regional!" "Break that jinx!"
But Franklin beat us--the very first game
And over the horizon basketball sinks.

1937 Flood

All of the students in the public schools of Madison were dismissed the last week in January of 1937. Excitement predominated at the high school building because the "Beautiful Ohio" had risen so high it was lapping at the steps in front of the Brown Gym and was entering the east end of the passageway between the gym and the school.

For three weeks the high school building was unusable. The sand bags that had been used in the basement were inadequate. The Ohio had rolled in until it had reached the amazing depth of $7\frac{1}{2}$ feet in the basement.

The scenes on the opposite page are of the high school building during the height of the flood. The one on the upper left is taken from the northwest corner of Broadway and First Sts. This was about the most protected place along the water front for a coal barge because the swift current was broken at this place by the high school building.

The picture on the upper right was snapped from a boat south of the school. The ticket booth may be seen floating in the water. The picture in the center is of the high school steps. The one in the lower left is of the corner of the school at Broadway and First Sts. The picture on the lower right is taken inside the gym from the stage.

The accompanying group of pictures will make more vivid the recollections of the flood of '37 as it effected Madison High School.
