I SEE A SUCCESSFUL YEAR AHEAD

- William Craig

A new year at Shawe marks new experiences, and new friendships to be made, along with an array of other possibilities. Starting the school year students were ecstatic, nervous about being in a new school, and happy to be home again. Whether it be accomplishments in academics, sports, school clubs and the brand-spanking-new classroom additions, students barely had time to take it all in. The amount of many new things to take part in was an endless list, and students couldn't wait to get started.

When asked what the most memorable part of this year was, Tyler Canada said, "Shawe games this year was the most memorable part of the year, especially my classes' Shawe games intro. with our ninja fight. Where you all know, I won, of course."

As yet another year came to a close, students began to experience a new kind of excitement. Seniors heading off to college, saying goodbye to their high school days and going into the real world, juniors looked forward to being seniors and finally getting to get all the little perks seniors get to enjoy. Eighth graders were overjoyed about becoming a high schooler, and the sixth graders from Pope John were nervous, anxious, and elated to be seventh graders. Students were ready for another year of memories to be made at Shawe Memorial.

The new year brought on new changes. Students were finally able to enjoy the brand new addition onto the school that housed the new engineering and Spanish rooms. With construction finally over and everyone settled in permanent classrooms, students and faculty alike were ready to kick off an exciting year. From winning Boys Varsity Soccer Sectionals to the Academic Teams advancing to state, the Shawe Memorial family accomplished the exciting year they set out for. When asked what the most memorable moment was this year, Taylor Rhoten said, "Winning Soccer Sectional was the most memorable moment. No one was expecting it." Allie Lustig added, "The trips Kaelie Davis and I took to our internship at the hospital were the most memorable. We laughed and shared our gruesome ER experiences."

Life at Shawe was full of excitement and variety. In the school atmosphere, students were found participating in numerous sports, clubs, and student led activities. Outside of school, kids could be seen hanging out at Taco Bell, walking downtown or hitting up the lanes at the bowling alley. Dances at Shawe proved to be one of the things students liked to participate in most. Madison Drumm commented, "I love dances because I like being around all of my friends just thrashing around goofing off." Sarah Sanders added, "I love the school dances, like Homecoming and the Back to School dance, because I like to see the school come together in that kind of environment." In any kind of activity, students always found a way to have fun. -Caitlin Kelly

Spirit

We've got spirit, yes we do!

Spirit

is one of the most important and valued traits to have at Shawe. Having strong spirit shows how much something really means to a person. The students and faculty always show that with great effort. "My favorite thing about spirit week is all the excitement and preparation for the big game that week," said David Grote.

Not only is spirit shown in school, but also at every game, "I like seeing all the support at our basketball games," said Jordan Chandler. When you have this much spirit, it's hard not to feel like one big family. -Katie Hayden

Twenty students and three adults traveled this past January to be a part of one of the largest protests in Washington, D.C. This past year marked the thirty-ninth anniversary of the Supreme Court's ruling on Roe v. Wade, which legalized abortion. "I attended the march this year because I wanted to show what I so strongly believe in regarding life itself," commented Sarah Sanders.

For some students, this was not their first time attending. Caitlin Kelly added, "I've attended the march several years, because it is something I feel strongly about. It's an amazing feeling to think that one day, it could change history." -Brittney Snodgrass

Katie McGee, 11th

"Just being in the environment of the march and bonding with the other people on the trip was my favorite part."

Billy Cole, 10th

"Seeing the hundreds upon thousands of people at the march who were all supporting the same cause was my favorite part."

Ashley Josephsen, 12th

"I really got a lot out of the Holocaust museum, and it means that much more when I thought of why we were in Washington, DC."

Part of the group participants pose for a quick picture before beginning their march. Madison Drumm, Katie McGee, Kalyn Robison, Kaelie Davis, Ashley Josephsen, Taylor Davis, Sarah Sanders, Spencer Torfine and Caitlin Kelly all hold up their signs showing their support of life. Eamon Fry commented, "The best part about attending the march was being able to be present with thousands of other people who feel as passionate about the same cause." photo by Bonnie Wentworth

Laura Hesse and JaLynn Copeland huddle under an umbrella showing off their signs before the march started. Although the rainy weather was an annoyance, it didn't stop an astonishing turn out of all the participants. Liz Stucker added, "The weather was awful, and we all got soaked, but nothing could dampen our spirits! We all had an amazing time!" photo by Brittney Snodgrass

Friends

You're the Sand to My Beach

The friends you make at Shawe are ones that you will have for a lifetime. By the time you're a senior, like Sam Boone, you'll have a vast array of memories to keep forever. When asked what his favorite one was, Sam said, "Going on roadtrips to Hooter's with my buddies, and then going back to David's and just hanging out are the times the BEST memories were made. It's so simple, but so many crazy things happened that I will for sure never forget."

Getting to go to the same school as your best friend is a perk most Shawe students enjoy. Kaelie Davis commented, "It makes the school day way easier to get through. If you have a problem, they're right there. If you need to laugh, you can count on them. I wouldn't be able to make it through school without my best friends." As students get older and college carries them away, they stay true to a quote once said by Winnie the Pooh, "If there ever comes a day when we can't be together keep me in your heart, I'll stay there forever". - Caitlin Kelly

Cassey Higdon, 11th
"My favorite quality in Angela is that we've been friends since 3rd grade. When we hang out we always have a great time and cry laughing! We're so much alike, we love the same things, and she just gets me. And of course we're country!"

Nicholas McCubbin, 12th
"Ben always trades me pizza slices at lunch when his are burnt and mine aren't (I like burnt pizza). It's one of the best qualities he has, he would do anything for his buds."

DJ. Scoggins, 11th
"My favorite quality in my best friend, Sian, is that she is always there for me. She can make me smile on the worst days."

Family

Family By Genes, Friends by Choice

Most of the students at Shawe would agree that one of the greatest things about attending a school so small is the family oriented environment. Since many of the students are related, it's easy to have the close knit bond they all have with one another. With so many siblings there is always bickering, but with that comes the love. Lauren Goebel said, "Megan is always there for me, so when I have a bad day she's just down the hall, and we talk about everything."

Franklin Belt said, "I really like that Joey is at Shawe now, he's pretty funny and we laugh a lot together." No matter how distant in age, the Shawe siblings are always there for one another, sharing laughs, and creating memories. - Taylor Davis

Cristian Rios, 10th

"Out of all my siblings, Sarelia is the one I'm closest with. Mainly because my brother is always off with his friends, but also because she's there for me."

Sarelia Rios, 8th

"I am closest to Aczael, because we both have a lot in common, and we tell each other everything!"

Aczael Rios, 11th

"Of my siblings, I am closest to Sarelia for sure. She is one of my best friends, and I can tell her about anything. She's always there for me. She's great."

Couples Time Cherished

Dating in high school, while enjoyable, had its pros and cons. Cassey Higdon explained some of these for dating someone from another school. "Yes, it's difficult dating someone who doesn't go to the same school. But then again, I like it better because I'm so close with everyone at Shawe that I can't see myself with anyone here."

Other couples, like Branden Callis and Mariah Scott, were able to be with each other each day at school. Branden noted, "It has its ups and downs, but you always know you're loved at the end of the day, and I love seeing her everyday." - Liz Grote

Kaelie Davis, 12th

"I never imagined that I would date a county boy, but I love everything about him, and every moment we spend together."

Bailey Davis, 11th

"The hardest part of not going to the same school as Aaron is probably that I don't get to see my best friend everyday, and that he doesn't know who I'm talking about when I try to tell him stories."

Caitlin Kelly, 12th

"The best thing about Nico is that not only is he my boyfriend, he's also my best friend. We always have so much fun, and no matter what, we're always there for each other."

During a Pro-Life rally in Indianapolis, Jarrod Rampy and Madison Drumm share their belief against abortion by holding signs along the street. Service Hours

Impacting the Community

Serving the community could be done in many different ways. The biggest of these opportunities was the Community Vacation Bible School. Students enjoyed this event, as they received the chance to bond with the younger children of the community, and teach them about things that they, themselves, were very familiar with. Julia Wise added, "I liked getting to watch the kids at Vacation Bible School learn Bible stories in a fun way."

While students participated in service hours, they were helping others and not expecting anything in return. In doing this, the school hoped to instill life long memories and lessons to its students who participated. "I love volunteering. It really makes me feel like I am doing my part to help others and the community," commented Chloe Storm. -Brittney Snodgrass

Doug Totten, 12th

"The best memory that I have from participating in service hours was planning the Crop Walk. It is always fun!"

Sammie Tilley, 8th

"Working at the school festival was my best memory from participating in service hours this year. I got to hang out and have fun with my friends and help the school at the same time."

Clayton Elsbury, 9th

"The best memory that I have from participating in service hours was getting to spend times with my friends and meeting new people."

Jarrod Rampy volunteers through History Makers. This group showed a class of elementary students from out of town around the city of Madison, participating in several activities. Jarrod Rampy commented, "My favorite part about participating in History Makers this year was getting to teach the little kids about our wonderful town, and its part in the history of the United States itself." photo by Bridget Fry

Katie McGee, Garrett Grimes, Spencer Torline and Luke Higgins hold signs promoting life along a street in Indianapolis. Pets

No matter what kind of day you've had or what kind of mood you are in, it's always so awesome to be able to come home to the warm welcome of a funny, happy, energetic pet. "It cracks me up when my 80lb labrador thinks he's a 5lb lap dog," said Ivy Schafer.

While some people see pets just as animals, others see them as close friends and a part of their family. "It's nice to always have a companion around", said Taylor Kelly. Christmas Dance

Dancing Draws Friends Together

The Christmas Dance turned out to be a very fun night for all who attended. Whether dancing the night away or just enjoying time with friends, every one had a good time. Freshman, Caroline Wehner, noted, "My favorite part of the Christmas Dance was getting to hang out with my friends."

Other students, such as Laura Hesse, favored the dancing. "The best part of the Christmas Dance was the dancing! I love just going crazy during the fast songs, even though neither my date nor I are the best dancers," she said. - Liz Grote

David Grote, 11th
"My favorite part of the Christmas Dance was when Sam Boone and I danced to I'm Sexy and I Know It."

Taylor Rhoten, 11th
"I really like the fact that all the dancing took place. It was fun!"

Katie McGee, 11th
"My favorite part of the Christmas Dance was dancing the night away with everyone and my pretty awesome date!"

Trends

Styles Unlimited

Besides using regular chapsticks, senior, Caitlin Kelly, found a new way to moisturize her lips with colored Baby Lips Chapsticks. Many of her friends caught on, and the discovery was trendsetting, photo by Taylor Davis

The start of the 2012 year was a new beginning when it came to trends. New styles appeared in all different ways, putting a creative twist on the norm. Some trends from past years lingered, while fresh new ones made their way through the Shawe student body. When asked if he was a student that follows trends or sets them, Nick Craig said, "I like to do my normal routine of wearing long sleeve shirts and shorts year round, but my favorite of all is my no make-up and sweatpants day."

Shawe students were known for showing their unique personalities through what they wore. Kate Elliott said, "I like to think I set trends and do my own thing. I'm Kate, I don't try to be anyone else. I think that's very trendsetting." - Taylor Davis

"I think that lace has become a big thing this year. I love the skirts, dresses, and shirts that I've seen people wear. They're dressy, casual, simple, and classy."

Jesse Ball, 11th

"The sweater with a shirt and tie is one of my favorite trends, and it's caught on pretty well."

Addie Davis, 10th

"My favorite trend is moccasins. They keep my feet warm and they look good with jeans or school pants."

One of the other trends followed by select few was camouflage jackets. Dakota Weaver and many of his friends' wardrobe consisted solely of camo. photo by Taylor Davis

Lunch

Food and Fellowship

Lunch break for many of the students is not only a time to quiet those mid-day hunger pains, but a time to catch up with their friends in other grades, along with their classmates whom they don't see often throughout the day. When asked what his favorite part of lunch break is, Mr. John Kalb said, "It is interesting to see all of the different, unhealthy eating habits. Myself included."

During this time the students are often seen gathering in their friend's "designated" spots in the lounge area. Ryan Cox said, "My favorite part about lunch break is definitely eating. Other than that, it is getting pretty old." -William Craig

Jordan Chandler, 11th
"My favorite part about lunch is the shenanigans my friends and I do, during lunch in the lounge."

Tyler Deeg, 11th
"My favorite part about lunch is that I enjoy talking with my great friend Tyler Edward Canada during my lunch break."

Madison Drumm, 10th
"My favorite part about lunch is that I like being around my friends, and it gives me time to cram if I have a religion test!"

Rolling out the red carpet was the theme of Homecoming, and the stars really stood out from the crowd! The Homecoming Court, whether they won or lost, all had bright smiles through the whole event, and were really the stars of the night. When asked how she felt when the news came that she had won Homecoming Queen, Caitlin Kelly said, "It didn't feel real. I was completely surprised and it didn't sink in until later, and when it did it felt great! I felt very loved."

When asked what it felt like winning Homecoming Prince, Joey Mingione said, "It was nice knowing that so many of my fellow students like and respect me enough to vote for me for Prince!" -William Craig

Jesse Ball, 11th
"My favorite part was celebrating a great win with my teammates, but dancing with my best friend, Liz Grote, was the best!"

Carson Hambrick, 7th
"My favorite part of the Homecoming dance was when the 'Dougie' came on, I love doing the Dougie!"

Catholic Schools Week

Faith, Service, and Academics

During Catholic Schools Week, the seniors get up in front of the whole school assembly to talk about their teachers. Chloe Storm shares a few words about Mrs. Rachel Baudendistel while other students and teachers listen along. photo by Caitlin Kelly

Catholic Schools Week is one of the biggest times of the year for Shawe Memorial and every other Catholic School in the United States. It is a great time for students to enjoy doing fun activities and to show the community what Catholic Schools are all about.

A lot of the activities get reused each year, but if students could pick any new activity to do, Joe Nchia suggested, "If we could do a new activity during Catholic Schools Week, it would have to be a movie field trip day." Much work goes into making Catholic Schools Week possible. Miss Jenny Nigg commented, "A huge challenge is organizing new events into the schedule when we have several fun traditions that we want to keep every year. It was hard not to do the Paper Football Superbowl when we have done it for years!" Catholic Schools Week proved to be the one week students looked forward to. -Caitlin Kelly

Lauren Geslinski, 7th
"My favorite part about Catholic Schools Week is doing games instead of school work."

Mrs. Evans and a group of 22 students and chaperones ventured overseas to Spain during Spring Break. They visited many cities including Madrid, Toledo, Seville, Cordoba, and Malaga. Franklin Belt expressed his favorite part of the trip. "For me, it was definitely the Toledo visit. It was like walking in a Medieval city."

For others, simply being overseas on a new continent was the best part. Brittney Snodgrass stated, "I liked being able to travel to another country with my friends. It was an amazing experience." - Liz Grote

"My favorite part of Spain was having Paco drive us around and seeing all of the historical sites."

"My favorite part of Spain was visiting the Mesquita. Paco was a big deal too."

Before leaving the Malaga airport to fly back to Madrid, Michael Muessel, Taylor Rhoten, Spencer Torline, Eamon Fry, David Grote, and Ben Craig line up with Paco Barranco to take a picture. Paco was a bus driver on the trip and had an immediate bond with the group and Mrs. Evans. He acted as a hero when Mrs. Hall's purse was stolen and the bus broke down. Paco ended up coming back to visit with the group several times before their final departure. photo by Brittney Snodgrass

While some people go all out for the Spring Fling, others tend to show up dressed a little more casual. However you choose to dress, the Spring Fling is always a blast. Getting together and having a great time dancing with friends is what it's all about. "My favorite part is going out to eat with all of my friends, it gives us a chance to relax before the dance," said Connor Boone.

The themes for Spring Fling are always fun and creative to make a lightened mood and keep everyone dancing. "My favorite part was my date, we had a ton of fun together," said Katie McGee. Students enjoy having great time and dancing "Under the Sea." -Katie Hayden

Once again, the eighth grade students were given the opportunity to travel to our nation's capital. Each day, the students were able to tour and visit different parts of the city, delving into its history. Ava Lohrig commented, "The best part of being able to travel to D.C. was going to the Holocaust Museum. Seeing how many people died, and how they died for no reason became a reality for me."

The students were only in D.C. for a few days, but many enjoyed trip and being out of school away from their normal lives. The trip was still very educational for both the students and adults, and as they returned, their knowledge of the capital and history proved it. "I really enjoyed touring the capital and visiting all of the museums. It was very interesting, and I learned a lot," added Sarelia Rios. -Brittney Snodgrass

This year prom proved to be one of the most fun filled nights the student body had experienced all year long. Walking into the Livery Stable, juniors, seniors and their dates were immediately taken to a rock concert atmosphere. Making sure every little detail was perfectly in place was junior class president, Liz Grote's goal. "The hardest part about planning prom was living up to everyone's expectations. Prom is supposed to be big and extravagant. I wanted to create that for the seniors and juniors," she noted. All who attended prom were beyond impressed with what the junior class prom committee created. When asked what her favorite part of prom was, Kaelie Davis commented, "The photo booth! My best friend Caitlin Kelly and I were in it all night taking goofy pictures. It was a blast!" -Caitlin Kelly

Brittney Snodgrass, 11th
"The best part about having Franklin at prom with me was being able to make lots of memories between us and our other friends as well."

Michael Elburg, 12th
"I loved getting to spend six hours with Nickie, and she looked beautiful. We had fun dancing and being together."

The battle to win Shawe Games becomes even more intense every year. While everyone loves the day off from busy schoolwork, it's still a day taken seriously by many. The competition, however, never gets in the way of having fun. Chloe Storm said, "Shawe Games can be taken however people want it to. I'm competitive, so I like to push my class to be number one. Even though we got second this year it was so much fun running out with my class like ninjas."

The day is filled with a variety of activities so that everyone is guaranteed to have a blast. Kalyn Robison said, "When I'm done playing my games, I can walk around and root for my team and hang out with my friends. It's never a boring day." Shawe games will always be a tradition loved by all. - Taylor Davis.

Graduation

These are the best days of our lives

The Class of 2012 graduated eighteen bright young adults on Sunday, June 3rd. The Class received an astonishing amount of scholarship money for such a small class. A total amount of $23,000 was received on their senior scholarship night, $27,000 on graduation day, and $270,000 from colleges and universities. This totaled $320,000. On top of those amounts, the Class of 2012 had two 21st Century Scholars and a National Merit Scholarship recipient. Nine students graduated with an Academic Honors diploma and nine graduated with a Core 40 diploma.

The scholarships awarded at graduation were: Fr. Charles Walsh Memorial Scholarship- Chloe Storm, Myrna & Leslie Dattilo Memorial Scholarship- Doug Totten, Lucille Pratt Memorial Scholarship- Kaelie Davis, Chuck Hall Family Memorial Scholarship- Franklin Belt, John & Mary Dierkes Memorial Scholarship- Caitlin Kelly, Karen Dierkes Ihle Memorial Scholarship- Doug Totten, Fr. Hilary G. Meny Scholarship- Kaelie Davis, Louis A. Whether you like football or ballet, comedies or horror films, it's never a task to put our differences aside and be the family we've always been. "I love how close everyone is, and how easy it is to fit in and just be myself," said Garel Blanchard. You never have to look far to find a friend in Shawe, and that really helps when you're having a bad day or looking to make a good day better. "I love my class!" said David Strange, "we're all good friends, and for the most part we get along very well." We're not a perfect school, but working together to improve is what keeps us close and motivated. -Katie Hayden

Seniors

The quote by George Bernard Shaw that says, "Life isn't about finding yourself. Life is about creating yourself," is something the Class of 2012 took to heart throughout their twelve years of change, hardship, learning and enjoyment. Although the students came out as single individuals, it was through the unity and bonds created with classmates that got them through it, and made them the unique people they are today.

Senior year really embraced the growth of each student through the privileges and expectations given to seniors that very first day in August, when they start their last year of high school. To fit the number of years of schooling, the seniors had twelve reasons why senior year was the best year of all. The first reason that the seniors thought was the most important was being looked at as the top leaders of the school. "I love having teachers look to us as responsible and having underclassmen looking up to us for guidance," stated Chloe Storm. The second reason, a little less serious, was not having to be a junior any more. Caitlin Kelly commented, "A lot of pressure came with being a junior, especially being president. We had to work concessions, plan prom, work Baccalaureate and Graduation and whatever else came up. It was A LOT of work!" - Taylor Davis and Caitlin Kelly

The third reason why students thought their senior year was the best one yet was getting to have free days, like helping set up for the annual Prince of Peace festival. Getting to do just that, William Craig, Doug Totten, Ben Craig and Michael Muessel enjoy a break before getting further instructions on what job to do next. Along with the topic of privileges, the seniors fourth reason for thinking twelfth grade was the best year was getting to go first for certain activities, like the Thanksgiving meal put on by the teachers each November. photo by Caitlin Kelly

One of the biggest reasons why senior year proved to be the best was getting to participate in senior retreat. Living up to their seventh reason, Tyler Canada, Doug Totten, Alex Feltner, William Craig, Michael Muessel, Michael Elburg, Nicholas McCubbin, Ben Craig, Nick Craig, Franklin Belt, Samantha Swartz, Ashley Josephsen, Chloe Storm, Kate Elliott, Taylor Davis, Kaelie Davis, Caitlin Kelly, Kelly Laskowski, and Sam Boone posed for a picture after senior retreat. Coming back from retreat, seniors felt as though teachers looked at them more as young adults and less as silly teenagers. This became their eighth reason for enjoying life as a senior; photo by Mr. Steve Hesse

Alex Feltner relaxes and shares a joke with his classmates in his senior English class. The ninth reason for loving senior year was having the easiest classes and getting to goof off in them; photo by Kaelie Davis

Dancing the night away as a class, Nicholas McCubbin, William Craig, Caitlin Kelly, Kaelie Davis, Ben Craig, Taylor Davis and Chloe Storm come together and move to the fast beat of the music. Still wanting to do something productive their senior year, students were excited to get to plan the Christmas dance. This was their eleventh reason. It wasn't as extravagant as planning prom, but it was still a fun and enjoyable task. To conclude their last and final year, seniors chose Baccalaureate and Graduation to be their twelfth reason for loving senior year; photo by Bonnie Wentworth

Juniors

Junior year provided a chance for many students to become closer and more accepting of one another. With a class so large, it had been easier in years past to segregate into different social groups, but, with only one year left, students began to understand the importance of everyone's individuality and uniting as one. "I enjoy having so many people in our Junior class because there is a greater variety in the personalities, and it keeps the school day interesting," mentioned JaLynn Copeland.

Other students found the most interesting part of this year was the fact that it meant high school was almost over. John Valkovci noted, "The most important part of Junior year is knowing that there is only one year left until Senior year." - Liz Grote

Becoming closer as a class and as a family the sophomore students have learned a lot through the years, as the sophomores get older and prepare for college they started to realize we're not going to be together in high school for much longer. Madison Drumm said, "We are all pretty close, so we can tease each other and goof off without making each other mad."

Sophomres are taking advantage of the times we have to spend as a class as much valued opportunities. Shelby Greene said, "By having such a small class we are able to be closer to each other." The 2011-2012 school year was one for new opportunities for the freshman class. For the first time, they were able to play high school sports and participate in high school classes. Stephanie Snodgrass said, "It is a lot of fun. I got to meet all the upperclassmen and get to know them." It was a change, but it was fun and exciting.

So many activities are available to freshmen that were not an option before high school. While there isn't anything big that freshmen do, many small things add up to equal a great year. Freshmen were finally able to attend the formal dances, the Christmas Dance and Spring Fling, and many other activities that were fun and enjoyable.

Collin Hambrick said, "My favorite part of freshman year is finally being out of junior high and into high school." All freshmen had a different perspective about finally being a high school student, but all can agree that the experience was a wonderful one! -Myles Hesse

As the Seventh graders made their transition into Shawe, they encountered many new experiences. Most can attest that there are many changes from Elementary School to Junior High, from lockers, to new teachers, to a different routine in general. "My favorite part about coming to Shawe this year has been being able to learn about God and the Catholic religion," added Ben Ratcliff.

Although many of these experiences were positive, there were some difficult parts, as there is with any transition. Gabrielle Pawlak commented, "The biggest challenge that I have encountered with attending Shawe was learning to open my locker."

With the help of upperclassmen, the faculty and the staff, the seventh grade class made their first year at a new school a success. "A lot of people have helped me this past year with my transition to Shawe, but most of all was my aunt, Mrs. Lou Ann Center," added Ethan McCarter.

Faculty and Staff

Every year the staff of Shawe Memorial not only do their share of hard work and effort to run the school, but go above and beyond. That's what makes the teachers and staff of Shawe so unique. "I love Mrs. Torline's strange way with words and ability to use them to make learning more fun," said Sarah Sanders.

Working in a school takes a lot of hard work and dedication, and through the years the faculty has shown that they have what it takes by keeping our faith alive and holding the school together; not only as an academic facility, but as a family under God. "I think Mrs. Schafer is super sweet and just all around awesome!" said Madison Drumm. -Katie Hayden

Academics

Shawe is known for their student participation in clubs, involvement in extracurricular activities, their support of family and friends, and, most of all, their excellence in academics. Teachers and students alike don't settle for good, but instead are always finding room for improvement. JaLynn Copeland said, "I try to improve my grades by studying as hard as possible. I also make flashcards, which helps a lot." Although balancing a social life with school work posed an obstacle to many students, they had help from teachers. Mr. Hesse said, "I really strive to make sure the students learn the information and receive some of my profound wisdom!" Many teachers were known for spending countless hours after school helping students with homework, preparing the next day's plan, and even staying after to help students excel in specific subjects in the Indiana Academic Superbowl. -Taylor Davis

Language Arts

Reading Outside the Box

Juniors, John Valkovci, Noah Hall, and Cody Canada discuss a novel the three chose to read outside of class. English was a subject many didn't just take on during school, but in their free time as well, photo by Taylor Davis.

Shawee students had many different options to choose from as far as scheduling for classes. In particular, the choices among the Language Arts classes. For many students, language arts is a required class every year, so with the variation in classes, students were able to change things up. In being able to do so, they could see what fit best for them and learn a different aspect of English. Senior, Caitlin Kelly said, "I like when we get to have time in class to work, that way we can ask for help if we need it."

Sophomore, Zach Tingle said, "My personal favorite thing we do in English class is have class discussions about the novels we read, so you get everyone's perspective. I also like when Mrs. Martin talks about her cats." The language arts teachers were always making class more interesting with background history of novels and fun stories of their own lives. This way students were sure to never get bored with reading and learning! - Taylor Davis

Foreign Languages

Fun in Foreign Languages

The desire to take a foreign language class grows every year among our Shawe students, and the graduation requirement of having taken at least one foreign language class is anything but dreadful. "Although at times there seems like a lot of challenges with learning a foreign language, it's always worth it when you can carry out conversations and understand what's going on," said Ashley Josephson.

Through different ways, the students are introduced to the new language and the culture that matches. Shawe foreign language classes are always doing something fun to get hands on experience and a better understanding of how to use the language. "We get the chance to teach Pope John students every Thursday, we read short French stories, and play fun games that incorporate the words like bingo. I think kids learn better when they're having fun," said Chloe Storm. Our foreign language teachers would agree. Ms. Schafer's, Mrs. Evans', and Mrs. Gray's patience and creativity with the classroom lessons make it easier for the students to learn pronunciation and depth of the language. - Taylor Davis

Science

Exploring the Corners of the Mind

At Shawe there was an array of different kinds of science classes. Any student could find their niche in the many different atmospheres provided. Each one was unique in their own way. When asked what her favorite type of science was, Laura Hesse said, "My favorite type of science is chemistry because it is going on all around us all the time. It's cool to understand the reactions going on, even if we don't see them."

When picking classes, DJ Scoggins picked Advanced Science in the Movies. She commented, "Mrs. Stormer is my favorite teacher, and I'm really into mental illness/psychology. I thought this class would give me an opportunity to learn more about mental illnesses." Science was a class that almost all of the students at Shawe loved to take. It provided so many options and fun activities. -Caitlin Kelly

Math

One problem at a time

Math is a subject that many students can find challenging. With numbers rumbling around in their brains, the students listen to the lessons, work hard on their homework and help each other to better understand the subject. The teachers of the various math classes, Mrs. Jane Riehle, Mrs. Teresa Torline and Mr. Jerome Bomholt, are always more than willing to help a student understand the math concepts. When asked what his favorite part of math class is, Myles Hesse replied, "I love the feeling of when a difficult problem clicks."

When asked what her favorite part of math was, Angela Goley said, "My favorite part of math class is getting to have it with Kaelie Davis, Sam Boone and David Grote. Their random outbursts keep everyone entertained." -Caroline Wehner

Ms. Jenny Nigg teaches her class using a lecture-style. During this time, students, Mckayla Thomsberry, Amelia Koehler, Clayton Elsbury, and Cristal Rios, learn how to take notes, which will eventually help to prepare them for college classes. Developing an ear for what is important to take note of, can many times be difficult for students to get the hang of. For this reason, many teachers find it important to start the process now and build up to the note taking process by using handouts, video guides, and other media forms.

Social Studies

History Takes its Course

An obstacle for teaching social studies this year came as getting students to participate and stay interested in class. Teachers, Ms. Jenny Nigg and Mr. Steve Hesse, however, had no difficulty in keeping the attention of students. While Mr. Steve Hesse preferred a discussion based class, Ms. Jenny Nigg used alternative methods. "I love that history is a story, so there are many ways to teach the subject using projects, videos, and simulations," she commented.

Students enjoyed alternative learning techniques as well. Seventh grader, Ben Ratcliffe noted, "My favorite part of history is doing projects and different fun things." - Liz Grote

Ashley Josephsen, 12th
"I like how Mr. Steve Hesse involves everyone in the discussions. It helps keep me interested in class."

Eamon Fry, 11th

Religion

A Faithful Adventure

Religion teachers, Mrs. Chemaigh Drumm and Mrs. Bridget Fry, continued teaching students the Catholic faith and all its entities this past year. Although the religion classes are required classes for students to take, a majority are having fun and learning at the same time. Katie Hayden commented, "The best part about attending a Catholic school is that I am always so close to my friends."

Students enjoyed debating controversial subjects in class, participating in service hours, studying the history of the Church, learning the new mass, going on retreats, participating in the Pro Life March along with numerous other events. "One of my favorite parts about religion is debating with my entire religion class and of course my best friend, Joey Mingione," added Ian Vandewater. -Brittney Snodgrass

Doug Totten diligently studies his booklet on the new translation of the Mass. On the first Sunday of Advent, the Mass changed to a closer translation to the original Latin text. This change was difficult for many, but with some class time devoted to learning the new Mass, it was easier for many students to learn. Ivy Schafer commented, "I don't really think that the change of the Mass is that difficult. I actually like the new changes because it is closer to the real translation." photo by Taylor Davis

Unlike what you might see on television shows or movies about students using any excuse to get out of P.E. class, the students of Shawe enjoy attending P.E. "I love getting some time out of my uniform", said Jack Heitz. It also gives them a class away from the books and homework and gives them a chance to show off their sporty skills in different activities. While some are in P.E., others are attending a health class with Mrs. Rachel Baudendistel.

"I like it when we have class discussions, and I get a chance to voice my opinion", said Claire Higgins. The students learn how their bodies function, how to properly maintain good health, and lots of other useful knowledge.

Project Lead The Way The Building Blocks of Education

Engineering is not an easy subject. With the help of Mrs. Lou Ann Center, everyone caught on and things became easier. The students used AUTO CAD, made a Rubik's cube, soldered random number generators and power supplies for breadboards, and completed many other tasks throughout the year. When asked what was the hardest part about taking the class, Whit Grote replied, "Definitely the math. We have to learn about 20 new formulas a semester."

A lot of math and computer skills are needed in an Engineering class, and many of the students found it to be interesting but difficult. "The hardest part is remembering all of the different equations, but I love doing it," said Spencer Torline. Some enjoyed the class so much that they are now thinking about pursuing a career in Engineering. -December Miles

Visual Arts

Artists in the Making

Many people would agree that taking an art class promotes a person's ability to be more creative and intellectual. The Shawe art class does just that. Cassey Higdon said, "I decided to take art this year because I love Mrs. Williams, and the way she helps us put to use our imagination. Plus, I want to major in art at college." With the majority of the school in visual arts, there is a wide range of ideas within the classroom, but Mrs. Williams doesn't let the different ideas go to waste. With many different projects, the students' creativity and unique characters are shown.

Each project that is assigned expresses the full potential of all the art students' talents and are acknowledged for their greatness. Ben Ratcliff said, "I really like art and I do anything I can to improve my talents in it. Art class really shows me how I can improve my skills, so I knew that was a class I wanted in my schedule." Rather viewed as a fun elective or an educating course, art class will continue to provoke the creativeness within all Shawe students. -Taylor Davis

Performing Arts

Loving Life on the Stage

Performing

Arts might seem like an easy class to some people, but everyone in the class knows that this class is a lot of hard work. The class performed a play from the 1800's for the fall, and they were also faced with a new teacher. "The change in teachers has been interesting. It was a difficult change, but I am glad to say everyone got into the swing of things," Ben Craig remarked.

"The Hound of the Baskervilles" was one of the most difficult plays that Shawe has put on in a long time. "I enjoyed being Sir Henry in the fall play, because I liked being a prominent character and being on the stage a lot," said Alex Reuss. This was the first time that he was cast as a lead role, and he, along with all of the other cast, did a great job with such a difficult play. -Myles Hesse

Tyler Canada, 12th

"My experience as Assistant Director was interesting, because I took charge of everybody, and had responsibilities doing their jobs, so yeah.."

Abby McInteer, 11th

"I love being onstage and seeing the audiences' reaction, but the best part is talking to the audience after about how much they enjoyed the show."

Kayla Gieslinski, 10th

"I love being able to express myself freely. It's strange because I express myself by becoming someone else on stage."

The students who worked the lights, sound, and made the set for the play, Andrew Eigel, Nick Craig, Trent Scroggins, Caleb Deeg, Tyler Canada, Ben Ratcliff, Myles Hesse, and Tyler Deeg, are seated for a group photo. Working the technical aspect of theater captivates the interests of many students.

Senior Fun

This was the morning aftermath of the 2012 senior prank. It was a fun night for all of the seniors and will always be remembered. photo by Ms. Erin Poyner

Keeping traditions alive was a goal for this year's senior class. Following that tactic, the seniors took part in the senior prank. They "partied like it was the end of the world" with a keg of root beer, tubs of ice cream, hundreds of red solo cups, and twenty toilet paper rolls. On top of littering the school grounds, some seniors built a troll bridge to create traffic malfunctions in the parking lot. Most of them spent the night on the school campus and woke to greet Mr. Bomholt in the morning.

A handful of seniors kept the senior trip tradition alive also. Eight seniors took their first day of summer to go to Kings Island as a group to have a day full of thrills. The day turned out to be a blast. The Class of 2012 had a year full of fun and adventure. -Caitlin Kelly

Nick Craig, 12th

"Making the troll bridge was the most fun. It was a last minute thing, but it was hilarious to see people's faces when they couldn't get through."

Ben Craig, 12th

"The most fun part about the senior prank was climbing on top of the roof."

Sam Boone, 12th

"The best part about both days was that I got to spend a lot of quality time with my classmates."

Organizations

Mr. Herb Whitney gives some top notch journalistic advice to the Topper 4 News team. At Shawe, clubs are taken seriously and helping out others and the community is a big part of being in a club. Whether it be the Spanish Club helping run the Hispanic Festival downtown to the wildly enthusiastic Golden Rowdie Members, the students at Shawe Memorial take pride in the clubs they are a part of.

When asked what his favorite thing about being a part of a club at Shawe was, Joe Nchia said, "I've always loved helping out others and my community, and being a member of many clubs at Shawe. I get the best of both worlds!"

Caitlin Kelly said, "My favorite thing about being a part of a club at Shawe is getting to do special activities, like planning what everyone should wear to a sporting event."

Capturing moments of the 2011-2012 school year can be a daunting task with many responsibilities at hand. Having a committee full of students eager to take pictures, write quotes, and finish pages, caused the stress level of the class to be decreased greatly. Liz Grote said, "It's work, but it's always worth it; to fill the yearbook with all the great things that happens through the year, so that we can look back and remember the times shared together."

A recent addition that has allowed the school and community to enjoy and follow the memories made is the Topper 4 News website. The website was founded by sophomore, Trent Scroggins, and was created to allow students, faculty, and community friends to share in the current events and activities taking place. It was an exciting idea for the students to get involved in and be able to incorporate journalism in a different way other than the yearbook. Destiny Lock said, "It's new and fun. Plus it really has helped me to get involved." - Taylor Davis

Jesse Fitton, Mrs. Teresa Torline, EmaLee Copeland, McKay Burdette, Myles Hesse and Amelia Koehler show off the turkeys that they purchased at the grocery store. The club raised money in a event prior that involved the entire student body. The students would buy feathers to place on each teacher's paper turkey. The teacher with the most feathers at the end had to wear a feather boa. The turkeys purchased were then donated to needy families through The Salvation Army.

Under new leadership of President Myles Hesse, the National Junior Honor Society took a different twist. Along with focusing on annual fundraisers that the club does year after year, the club became more involved and came up with new and exciting activities as well. "My favorite activity from this year was the cookie decorating party. It was a lot of fun, and a nice thing to do for the teachers at school," commented Hannah Storm.

Along with being a member of this club, came monthly meetings. Some students liked this chance of socialization while others enjoy their sleep. Whit Grote added, "The best part about being a member of NJHS is waking up at six in the morning to attend our meeting at the beginning of the day."

In the end, members enjoyed inspiring other students to do their part in making the community and school a better place. -Brittney Snodgrass into the new school year, the officers for the National Honor Society were in a panic because there wasn't a sponsor for the chapter. Not able to hold meetings or conduct business without one, the search for a teacher was on. Finally Miss Jenny Nigg stepped up to the plate and took over the spot.

Many people are involved in the construction of National Honor Society. The hardest part for treasurer, Allison Mruzeck, was collecting dues. She said, "Collecting dues is the hardest part because it's a lot of people to keep track of and a lot of them don't turn in their money." President Doug Totten added, "It's hard to get everyone to the meetings. Most don't want to wake up early unless there is a reward involved, like doughnuts, but we're doing great! And are doing awesome things!" -Caitlin Kelly club took a twist with the addition of the Spanish National Honor Society. Becoming a member of the SNHS is no easy feat by any means. Students are required to be in Spanish III Honors or above, and have no Spanish semester grade below 85. They must have a 90 overall average of all Spanish class semester grades, and have good morals, and values, doesn't that seem like a whirlwind of requirements?!

When asked what his favorite activity that the SNHS did this year, Ben Craig said, "I was very pleased with the friendship bracelet fundraiser for Jazmin. SNHS sold friendship bracelets to raise money to give her son a nice X-mas. The bracelets were a hit, and Angel had presents under the tree on Christmas morning." Alex Reuss said, "My favorite part about being in Spanish Club was all the fun activities that we do. For many, Student Council provided an opportunity for students to become involved in making decisions that would benefit Shawe. When asked what his favorite part of student council is, freshman, Collan Henderson, stated, "I enjoy helping my school and volunteering in my community."

With so many activities going on throughout the school year, from Red Ribbon Week to Homecoming to Shawe Games Day, there was never a shortage of events Student Council members could take part in. "My favorite part of Student Council is being a part of all the activities and helping coordinate some of the schools events like Doughnut Day and the Red Cross Blood Drive," mentioned Bailey Davis. -Liz Grote

Sports at Shawe this year came with many ups and downs. While some teams rejoiced in tremendous accomplishments, such as the soccer team making it to the championship round at Regionals, other sports teams had a more difficult time. Nonetheless, positive aspects were taken out of all athletic events. Ashley Josephsen commented, "Being the only senior on the softball team has made me step up and work harder as a leader. This has helped me improve as a player, and it will help me as I move onto the next step of my life, college." Underclassmen enjoyed the privilege of playing on high school athletic teams also. "I like playing high school sports, because I am able to spend time with my friends that are in different grades," noted Ivy Schafer. - Liz Grote

This year the Jr. High Cross Country team was a success due to teamwork on several levels. The team worked hard to get in shape for the meets. They helped each other, encouraged each other, and pulled together showing great teamwork and school spirit at each event. Great teamwork was also present when the runners on the Pope John team jumped in and helped out, by having some of their athletes run for the Shawnee team.

When asked what she liked most about being on the cross country team, Kate Grote replied "My favorite part of cross country was getting to be with all the older kids. I felt so grown up!" The team suffered some injuries but were able to pull through having a great season regardless. When asked Cayden Hambrick what the hardest part was, she replied, "The hardest part of cross country would have to be in practices when we did intervals." -Caroline Wehner

Running 3.1 miles can be an immensely difficult task to accomplish. Not only do runners have to run over three miles, they have to run quickly as well. Who would want to go through this? The answer is simple; Cross Country runners. "The main reason I chose to run Cross Country was because my mom made me, besides I knew that they needed more people for the girls to have a complete team," said Hannah Storm.

Most of the other runners ran because they love the sport. When asked what he liked most about the meets, Chris Peterson replied, "I liked to see how my times got better after each meet." All of the players enjoyed seeing themselves improve. After many hours of practice, the runners' times were much better. Running 3.1 miles can be difficult, but Cross Country runners love it. -Myles Hesse

The junior high soccer team took the saying "dynamite comes in small packages" to heart. This team may have been made up of youngsters, but they tackled the field like pros.

There were many things the team had to overcome in order to move forward. When asked what one of them was, Skip Maas commented, "The hardest part was probably just getting in the swing of things. There were a bunch of new players and it was a hard adjustment."

At the junior high level, three girls participated in a sport that usually only boys played in. The girls were constantly up against boys who were sometimes a lot bigger than they were. Sarelia Rios stated, "I love being up against the guys. It shows that we are just as tough or tougher than they are."

As a small team of primarily seniors, the boy's tennis team was bound for a successful season. Freshman, Raymond Fair stated, "Learning the fundamentals of tennis was the hardest part of the season for me because I had never played before." A winning season of 10-8 might not have been what the team was looking for, however the season was still successful. "Watching this group of seniors that did not win a match their freshman year, turn into a competitive tennis team was one of the best parts of coaching this year," commented Coach Steve Hesse.

The team will struggle next year with only three returning non-senior players. Noah Hall added, "I am a little nervous for next season mostly with the fact that Alex Reuss, Aczael Rios, Luke Higgins and I will probably make up the entire team!" The team is hoping to recruit more players and have yet another successful season. -Brittney Snodgrass

"The best part about playing tennis this year was playing Southwestern on Senior Night and miraculously coming back to win the match."

Michael Muessel, 12th
"The Oldenburg match was my favorite part about playing tennis this year. After we won the match, we went to eat at Gold Star Chili as an entire team."

Ben Craig, 12th
"The best part about playing tennis this year was exclaiming "Huzzah-Amen!" after every single point on senior night."

Between

a small number of players, injuries, and a majority of the team compiled of underclassmen, it was no doubt that Shawnee's Varsity Girls Basketball team would face some obstacles. That being said, accomplishments could be seen in aspects of the game besides just winning and losing. Taylor Grote commented, "Even though we had some rough times, my favorite part was the games that we played our best and showed improvement in. Those games may have resulted in a loss, but it felt like a win."

Junior, Allison Mruzek, also saw a big improvement in her team. "I hated being sick this year and not getting to play, but I was able to see how far my team had come and that was awesome." - Liz Grote

"Same old stuff just a different year" was the motto that the basketball boys lived by throughout the season. They had lost five seniors coming into the new year. Those five had carried the team in the previous year all the way to the second game of Regionals. Before even entering the season, the team had very big shoes to fill. "The hardest part of the season was coming so close to a sectional title but coming up one game short," Luke Higgins commented.

Senior Franklin Belt added, "I felt like I had bigger responsibilities being one of the oldest on the team." Although the boys were unable to bring home the sectional title for a third year in a row, they still made everyone proud. This year was one of the toughest the team had to go through and they still managed to make it to the very last round. -Caitlin Kelly

No team shows the philosophy of, 'practice makes perfect' better than the girls tennis team. Two years ago the team was fortunate enough to get a coach that was dedicated and determined. As the first year started off rough, it was clear that the team had a long way to go. The tennis team really showed their progress in their achievements of this past year. Katie McGee said, "I think what helped us the most was our amazing coach. He always had patience when we talked too much, but he got on us too and made us work."

From winning just one match two years ago to winning over half of their matches this year, the growth and hard work has all paid off. Chloe Storm said, "The most rewarding time in tennis this past season was winning against most of the teams that usually beat us every year. It was a real testament to see how far we've really come." The girls finished their season by winning the first match in the sectional against Madison. Next years season is set for definite success. - Taylor Davis

The track season was off to a rocky start, as team members were panicked to find a new coach. Xavier Jackson stepped up, and was named the Junior High, as well as the High School, track coach. Due to the small numbers of students participating, Shannon Fry was asked to fill in for a meet. This was Shannon's first track meet, she stated, "My favorite part was throwing shot put for the first time and getting 3rd place!"

Maddie Waller was also asked to participate in a relay race, even though she was not officially part of the team. Maddie said, "My favorite part of participating was being with all my friends." -Erin Poyner

The High School Track team faced a challenge this year, as the number of participants was small. With a new track coach from Hanover College, Xavier Jackson, the runners still had much to look forward to. Laura Hesse shared her favorite part of competing, "The most exciting part of track is at the end of a race. Occasionally, it will come between two people that have to sprint it out in the end."

A highlight of the season also came at the ORVC Meet. For the first time in three years, the girls were able to pull together a relay team with the help of Chloe Storm and Liz Grote. "I came over to Madison after our tennis match, because I heard they needed help. It was my first track meet since Junior High, so I thought we put in a good effort," noted Chloe Storm. - Liz Grote

Zach Tingle, 10th
"My favorite track event is the 100 meter dash. I really like sprint events, because it is all mental."

David Strange, 11th
"Sectionals was definitely the most exciting part of track this year. There atmosphere gives you so much adrenaline, and it helps to make you run faster."

Garell Blanchard, 10th
"The 800 meter would have to be the event I like to participate in the most, because it's a good medium distance event."

Sophomore, Zack Tingle, focuses on a long stride during the long jump. Zack participated in the event occasionally to make up for Shawe's lack of Boy's Track members, even though he favored sprints and shorter distance races. We were all very happy for him."

Alex Ruess was also able to pick out the positives in the season. "It would have been nice this year to go to Regionals and win Conference, but I was very proud of my team anyways. I was also thrilled to earn medalist honors at a few of our matches." - Liz Grote

Chris Petersen, 11th

"The most exciting part of this golf season was competing in Conference and sectionals and getting better throughout the year."

Spencer Torline, 11th

"Taking the golf clubs out of the bag and throwing them on the ground at practice was my favorite part of this season."

Michael Muessel, 12th

"The most exciting part about golf this year was that it was my last. It made moments bittersweet."

Junior, Alex Ruess, lines up for a drive. This was Alex's third year playing golf for the high school team and by the end of the season, it was also his most improved. JUST TO WIN IT

Getting new uniforms was just one of the perks of the 2012 softball season. Ashley Josephsen was the only senior and most would've looked at this as a burden, but Ashley looked at it in a positive way. She commented, "Being the only senior was tough at times, but this group of girls was amazing. They all brought something to the team and helped lead in their own unique ways."

Although the softball team didn't get as many wins as they had hoped, they still pulled out a few victories. When asked what it was like beating Rock Creek, DJ Scoggins said, "It was awesome. The girls were really nice and it made the game more enjoyable. It had been a long day and it was nice to accomplish the win." -Caitlin Kelly

Shelby Greene, 10th
"The best part about this season was when Mr. VanWye got in a fight with the umpires at the Switzerland County game. That team definitely won't ever be able to forget us."

Stephanie Snodgrass, 9th
"Getting to be the catcher my first year officially being on the team was the highlight of the season."

JaLynn Copeland, 11th
"The best part about the season was winning against Rock Creek in our double-header."

High School Baseball

Swingin' for the fences

Boys Baseball Front - Raymond Fair, Kyle Wisman, Sam Huffman, Whit Grote and Franklin Belt. Back - Jordan Wentworth, Branden Callis, Kyle Daughtery, David Grote, Jesse Ball, Luke Higgins and Aczael Rios.

Another

year of baseball, and a new head coach for Shawe, didn't seem to affect the players this year. Although with a few key players missing during the season, the boys really stepped up to the plate to make their season a home run! When it's spring time at Shawe, you can always see at least one player on the field either helping with the field maintenance or taking some extra fielding.

Aczael Rios said, "I love working on the field on Saturdays, coach gets us pizza, the team is together working hard, having fun and bonding, plus there's nothing like seeing how amazing our field looks after we get done for the day!"

Franklin Belt, the lone senior on the baseball team said, "It's pretty interesting being the lone senior, because I feel like I have bigger responsibilities looking after the team and giving the younger guys some advice I've learned over the years." -William Craig

Kyle Daughtery, 11th

"My highlight of the year was the home run I hit at Shawe this season."

Kyle Wisman, 9th

"Being an outfielder isn't as easy as it seems, it can be difficult to judge how far back or forward the ball is going, and you have to give it your all to make the catch."

Whit Grote, 9th

"Being a freshman and starting varsity is a great feeling, because it lets me know all the hard work I've done actually made me better and able to start with the upperclassmen."

David Grote and his fellow infielders gather at the mound for a pow wow on how to handle the next batter. Oftentimes, one of the infielders would call timeout and talk to the other infielders and pitcher on how he thinks they should field the next batter. This seems to be a very effective method for the Toppers as it has gotten them many key outs to keep them in the game. photo By Taylor Davis

Raymond Fair goes through his batting routine while staring down the pitcher to try and get in his head.

Ray is a very skilled batter, and he seems like he can hit whatever the pitcher throws at him. Many of the players have their own routine before the pitch leaves the pitcher's hand. Whether they swing the bat a few times, clear off their cleats or spit on their batting gloves, our guys do what they have to do to feel comfortable in the batter's box.

Being the voice of Shawe Baseball, Jordan Chandler focuses intently on the game at hand to give fans the latest updates on the game. Jordan also is known for being very enthusiastic when it came to announcing our players at bat.

Readying herself at the net, Carson Hambrick prepares for a ball to come her way. This was most of the girls first time ever playing tennis, and it proved to be a little harder then anticipated. "The hardest part about playing tennis is loosing. Even if I lose, I know that I tried hard and had fun. Also playing doubles with my best friend makes tennis that much more fun," she added. photo by Brittney Snodgrass

Riley Boone returns the ball back over the net during her match. She commented, "This is my first time playing tennis competitively. I really enjoy tennis, and I like learning new things. This past year has been a really great experience for me." photo by Brittney Snodgrass

JH Girls Tennis

The Future Is Bright

As a new year unfolded, so did a new sport that was offered. Normally throughout the spring sport season, there would only be one junior high sport that the girls could participate in; however, this past year that was changed. Coach Steve Hesse and Assistant Coach Alex Reuss started up another tennis team for the school. Alex Reuss commented, "I enjoyed being an assistant coach because I was not only able to help the girls become better team players, but also work on my own personal skills." Mackenzie Lewis commented, "I like that they offered a tennis team for us this year, because it allowed us to be able to brush up on our skills before joining the high school team."

Of course this year had its ups and downs, as any other sport would have. "I think the hardest part of the season for us was having so many people on the team who were all trying to learn," added Lauren Cieslinski. -Brittney Snodgrass

Shelby Whitham, 7th

"My best memory is probably laughing at all the mistakes I have made, especially when I completely missed the ball."

McKay Burdette, 8th

"My favorite memory from tennis this season was probably winning my first match. It was really windy and we won 6-2. It was a huge accomplishment."

Brittany Durham, 7th

"I enjoyed putting myself in a sport that I've never done before."

Other Sports Do What You Love

At the Sectional Finals Swim Meet, Luke Higgins, Joey Mingione, Jesse Ball, Eamon Fry, David Grote, and Sam Boone pose for a picture in their spirited outfits with Shawe's lone swimmer, Liz Grote. Liz placed 6th and 9th in her events this year at Sectionals, which was good enough to place Shawe 13th out of 18 teams. photo by Maria Grote

For some students, the sports offered at Shawe don't quite fit the mold, and they decide to look elsewhere to stay active. Sam Boone, for example, enjoys skiing in his spare time. "I love skiing because it is a competition between yourself and your own abilities," Sam explained.

Other student athletes, like Josie Grote, choose to participate in community teams, such as the H2O Swim Club. "Swimming itself is very relaxing to me, but I love doing it competitively, because of all the new people I'm able to meet swimming at the State and Zone levels," Josie stated. - Liz Grote

Taylor Rhoten, 11th
"Playing Basketball for a travel select team is very rewarding, I get a lot of experience with a faster paced game, and I like meeting new people."

Taylor Davis, 12th
"Doing Jillian Michael's workout every morning was tough, but it made me a lot more energetic throughout the day. I really enjoyed having Ashley Josephsen there to push me to keep going."

Tyler Canada, 12th
"All of my hard work payed off when I ran in the Molly Dattillo Run and placed 3rd overall."

Cassey Higdon steadies herself on one of her horses while taking a lap around the pen. Cassey participates in shows around the area and is very competitive in doing so. She has always had a love of horses growing up and spending time with them is now one of her favorite hobbies. photo by Kim Higdon

During some spare time at Shawe Games, Jordan Chandler takes a ride on his skateboard. Skateboarding is a sport that Jordan picked up all on his own. It is a nice way for him to stay active outside of the sports he participates in for school. photo by Barb Daugherty

While taking a stroll in Spain, David Grote and Michael Muessel use a cross bar to compete in a pull-up contest. Michael lifts weights in his spare time, and David does with the basketball team. photo by Liz Grote

Morgan Koehler smiles bright to end her cheerleading performance. Morgan is part of the Flyers dance team that is compiled of girls from Shawe and neighboring schools as well. photo by Anne Koehler

Liz Grote makes the finishing touches on her advertising page for the yearbook. "I have a phobia of talking on the phone and being rejected, so selling ads was definitely a challenge for me at first! Once I was able to overcome those fears, selling ads became much easier for me," she added. photo by Carole Williams

Katie Hayden works ahead to complete her advertising page. After students sold the ads, they had to create the company's design on their yearbook page. photo by Carole Williams

Scouring the internet for local businesses, William Craig looks for people to call for his advertisement sales. After many ads had been sold, finding new businesses to call became difficult. photo by Brittney Snodgrass

Advertising

Caitlin Kelly calls a local business she saw in the phone book, hoping to sell an ad space. Selling ads was the primary way of raising money for the journalism department.
photo by
Snodgrass

To be able to ensure an award winning yearbook year after year, the Journalism Department relied on the help of the entire community. Through selling advertisement spaces to fundraising, the department raised the required amount of money needed to publish their yearbook.

Selling ads wasn't as easy as one might think. "I definitely improved on being more comfortable talking to people on the phone and not getting down every time someone said 'no,'" added Taylor Davis.

Other fundraisers, from special nights at local restaurants, to selling dress down passes to students, members kept busy. Caitlin Kelly commented, "My favorite fundraiser was Franco's Night, because we got to go eat with our families. It was fun."

-Brittney Snodgrass

Shannon Fry thinks that Katie McGee is the most upbeat. If December Miles could date anyone in the school who isn't in her class, she would date Taylor Kelly. Sam Boone thinks that Riley Boone has the best smile.

The Knights of Columbus

Kaelie Davis and Chloe Storm, along with other classmates, help to set up tents for the Shawe festival. The Knights of Columbus always supports Shawe and their school functions, teaching students the need and rewards of community service.

Mr. Harold Vandewater pauses for a quick picture in front of a large rosary he constructed across from St. Patrick's Church. Harold's son, Tom Vandewater, recalled, "Dad would always say that something was impossible to do and it couldn't be done, and then he would go and do it." photo by Tom Vandewater

Not able to hold it in any longer, Kennedy Rucker bursts out laughing during one of his classes. Kennedy was always known for his big smile that he shared with everyone. photo by Molly McGary

All bundled up during a cold winter day, Mr. Vandewater makes his rounds of the school campus in his remodeled golf cart. Because of his big job of being the handyman for the entire school campus, he needed an easy way to travel about. photo by Tom Vandewater

Always Treasured

Shawe Memorial lost several treasured members of our community this past year. This page is a memorial for all of those lives that were lost in this past year.

Romans 14:8 says, "For if we live, we live to the Lord, and if we die, we die to the Lord. So then, whether we live or whether we die, we are the Lord's."

We must remember what is so well put by William Penn, "For death is no more than a turning of us over from time to eternity."

Every single person in our small community is treasured. We miss you!

Doug Totten ponders on a witty remark back to one of his fellow seniors, after a sarcasm fight broke out. Franklin Belt lets a little smirk build across his face as he listens in. The senior class may come across as if they dislike each other, but once you get to know them, they actually show that they love each and every one of their classmates. photo By Taylor Davis

We See Success

Jumping for joy and letting their hats fly, the graduating class of 2012 enjoyed the annual senior mass and luncheon. Along with a fun day with family and classmates, the seniors also enjoyed a lunch provided by the school at the Knights of Columbus. If that didn't already make the day great, the seniors are dismissed early after their luncheon. The senior mass is one of many of the special privileges the students get as seniors.

Winding down yet another fantastic year at Shawe Memorial, whether it be participating in the retreats, school festival, the bazaar, or just going to class; as the class of 2012 steps out of the doors and into the real world, they are more than prepared for anything. Due to their excellent schooling and faith, they can handle anything thrown their way!

Nick Craig said, "Oh there are many different things I will miss about Shawe. I will miss the atmosphere, the teachers, the students, and even the building itself. However, the thing I will miss the most about Shawe is seeing Mr. Kahn and having awkward conversations with him."

Although many things will be missed about the school, Madison Drumm said, "I'm going to miss all my senior friends! It's exciting to see them graduate, but at the same time it's really sad. I'm especially going to miss Caitlin Kelly."
